MAN DECLARED INSANE HIDES AFTER ATTACK

George Englehardt, Morton County Farmer, Said to Have Shot at Brother

ALSO ATTACKS OFFICERS

Claimed to Have Shot at Officers From Basement Window Seeking Arrest

Mandan, Oct. 23.—Armed with a high-powered rifle, a shotgun and a revolver, George Englehardt, aged 38, farmer living five miles northwest of Hebron, was sought today by a sheriff's posse augmented by farmers from miles around following his alleged attempted murder of his brother, Arthur, and his later alleged firing upon constables who went to the farm to arrest him.

Englehardt is believed to be mentally unbalanced.

Last Saturday he had an argument with his brother concerning the hiring work and shot at him with a rifle, it is said. Monday when officers went to the farm to take him in custody he fired at them from a basement window. Tuesday officers from the county sheriff's office went to the farm to get him and Englehardt had disappeared. He was known to have taken three weapons, mounted a horse, and gone to a point in the hills where a heavily provisioned automobile had been cached.

He was followed to the Canadian borders, officers said on returning here last night.

However, today Englehardt was reported to have been seen in the vicinity of Hebron and farmers from miles around joined in the hunt for the man.

A warrant has been issued for Englehardt's arrest on a charge of attempted murder and one alleging him to be demented.

SAY CARNEGIE CLAIM IS JUST

State Board Believes Valid Claim Exists

Records which date back to 1902 are in the hands of the state board of administration, in reference to the claim of the Home Trust Company of Hoboken, N. J., administrator of the estate of the late Andrew Carnegie, for $35,000 principal and unpaid interest on a loan said to have been made to the North Dakota Industrial School and School for Manual Training at Ellendale.

Suit has been entered in district court by the trust company to collect the sum, advanced in 1902 to build Carnegie Hall.

While there has been some objection raised to the claim by some familiar with the transaction at the time, on the ground that it was understood to be a gift, the state board of administration, according to members, feels that it is a valid claim and should be paid by the state. The legislature, it is claimed, has recognized the debt by paying interest until two years ago, when no appropriation was made for interest.

The records of the board show that trustees in 1902 felt that the need of more room at the institution was imperative. The board of trustees, on April 8, 1902, adopted a resolution to the effect that the loan would be repaid from revenues from interest and income upon lands set aside for the Ellendale institution. The loan was made without legislative authorization, this being expected later. A letter in the files from the late T. F. Marshall, dated December 29, 1913, said Mr. Carnegie made the loan understanding it was not legal, but expecting the action to be nullified.

Fights Freedom For Slayers

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Plans for a trust fund that may be used after his death to oppose any efforts to free Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, were announced by Jacob Franks, father of the boy they killed.

"The murderers must never get freedom," he declared. "A lenient governor, a shrewd lawyer, and indifferent people—and their liberation would be the matter of only a short time, unless provision were made to combat any effort to get them out of Joliet."

"I don't know how long I shall live. During my life I will fight any move to defeat justice. After my death, the trust fund will be available."

DRIVE OPENED FOR FINISH IN N. D. CAMPAIGN

Both Independent and Non-partisan League Headquarters Getting Busy

With the election less than two weeks off, campaign organizations in North Dakota are launching intensive finish drives.

Both Halvor Hulverson, coalition candidate for Governor, and A. G. Sorlie, Republican-Nonpartisan candidate, are out in the field speaking and will continue to do so.

Mr. Hulverson continues his assaults on the previous Nonpartisan League regime and the state industrial program, as regards expansion. He has declared for two years more experiment of the Grand Forks mill and submission to the people if the experiment is not a success at that time. Mr. Hulverson is pointing to the taxes paid for the state industrial program repeatedly in his arguments.

Mr. Sorlie is taking the position that the Grand Forks mill is the big question in the campaign, and he says that if elected he believes the mill can be made to pay. He will speak in Bismarck Friday night.

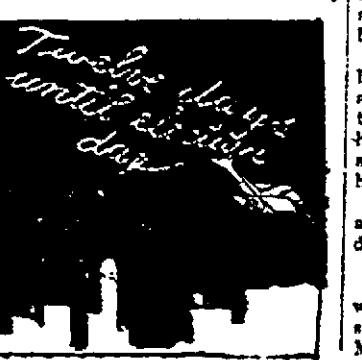

The Nonpartisan League headquarters here and the Independent headquarters at Fargo are directing a corps of speakers in the state, and both sides are promoting intensive organization work.

One of the bitterest fights being waged is in the Second Congressional District, where Thomas Hall of Bismarck and Gerald Nye of Cooperstown are competing for the short term in Congress, which will last until next March 1, and for the long term of two years commencing next March 4. In the long term race is M. J. Frazier of Jamestown, on the Nonpartisan League Party ballot.

U. S. Senator E. F. Ladd joined Nye in a campaign tour in the district, following Congress Vought, U. S. Senator Frazier also is campaigning in the district. Mr. Hall is out campaigning in the district. The short term election, to succeed Congressman George M. Young, resigned, is regarded as important in that it is possible the presidential election may go into the House of Representatives.

A bitter fight in the judicial race is being stirred up in the First District, where prohibition forces are after District Judge A. T. Cole because of many suspended sentences. C. S. Shipley is being supported by opponents. The Methodist Church conference at Minot passed a resolution aimed against Judge Cole. Two other judges, Englebert and Cooley, are virtually without opposition.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—An operation on Miss Truly Shattuck, 56 years old, vaudeville comedian and musical comedy star of 20 years ago, has reduced her weight from 124 to 112 pounds, and narrowed a 32 inch waist line to 34 inches according to surgeons of a hospital here.

Superfluous fat, weighing 69 pounds, was removed, they said.

CHINESE TONG WAR SEEN IN MANY CITIES

Reported Invasion of New York by 20 Hip Songs Stirs Other Tong

New York, Oct. 23.—News of the arrival of 20 members of the Hip Sing tong in Newark from Cleveland is reported to have reached residents of Chinatown through underground channels today. The mid-western Chinese were believed to be bent on reprisals for recent tong war slayings. Although the band's arrival could not be verified in Newark, police here prepared against the possibility of an invasion and took all possible steps to prevent further bloodshed among members of the warring tongs. A score of plain clothesmen were stationed at strategic points in Chinatown last night to watch for the first sign of an outbreak.

Reports of the expected invasion, spreading rapidly through the Mott Street district street neighborhoods, soon cleared the street of all Chinese except a few (Chinese) scouts, watching for the anticipated arrival of their enemies.

Even their scout concealed them in darkened doorways.

Onlookers, police say, have been expecting a Hip Sing invasion for the past 12 hours and have prepared for simultaneous attacks in a half dozen cities throughout the country. Renewal of tong hostilities, police said, have been expected by Chinese in Toledo, Cleveland, Buffalo and Detroit.

$15,000 Given For Alienation Of Affections

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—A jury composed of 11 women and one man fixed $15,000 as the price the "other woman" must pay for the love of another woman's husband in an alienation suit verdict returned in district court here today.

The other "woman" is Miss Beatrice Byron of Duluth. Her mother Mrs. Julia Byron, also of Duluth, was co-defendant in the suit.

The wife in the case is Mrs. Urban M. Williamson, formerly of Duluth and now of Minneapolis. The husband is Bruce B. Williamson.

Testimony showed that the Williamsons separated in 1922 after about six years of married life and that the husband moved his own home to Minneapolis, where the wife alleged the "other woman" was with him.

The $15,000 verdict, is the entire amount asked by the wife. The jury deliberated about four hours.

The first author to use a type writer in the preparation of manuscripts is believed to have been Mark Twain.

Ambassador to Germany, in Bismarck Today, Declares Election Means Much

TALKS OF DAWES PLAN

Coolidge Administration Has Done Much to Help Germany, He Says

Alanson B. Houghton, United States Ambassador to Germany, speaking before a group of business and professional men at a luncheon at the Grand Pacific this noon, stressed the importance of the Dawes plan in the restoration of stable conditions in Germany. He is here today and in Mandan tomorrow conferring with people and informing them of actual conditions in Germany.

Many of the mental attitude of Germans toward the policies adopted by the Coolidge administration for the relief of Germany and its economic recovery.

Judge Nueble presided at the luncheon and introduced Mr. Houghton, who has served with distinction in Germany during a period of more than three years. In a few preliminary remarks he gave a very vivid picture of what Europe and more especially of what Germany has gone through in her struggle to regain her feet and move forward to a stable place among the powers of the world.

For Coolidge Election

He urged a continuation of the Coolidge administration both from the standpoint of Germany's recovery and as good business for the people of the Northwest. He declared that if the election were thrown into the house, that the foreign policy which has resulted in the Dawes plan would be retarded and that no one could forecast what would result.

The Dawes plan, as explained by Mr. Houghton, sets up a credit through which Germany can function economically and work her way out. "In Germany he said, they have the plants, the men and the great industrial organization but no capital. The Dawes plan provides this very necessary and essential factor if Germany is to produce and move forward and pay the terms of the indemnity.

"Do the German people willingly support the Dawes plan? Mr. Houghton asked and answered:

"It is my conviction that at least 85 percent of them do and possibly 90 percent of them do. Most of the German people pin their whole faith to the plan. It is supported by the Reichstag, all the major parties, My consuls in the various sections of Germany report from 75 percent to as high as 95 percent for the plan.

In A Safe Plan

"And why should they not? It is a perfectly sane plan. It sets up a scheme of savings over a period of years and as Germany becomes prosperous she can pay under it. Germany must enter the world markets again. Some of the money furnished Germany in the way of a loan and a resumption of trade relations through the Dawes plan will flow to this Northwest country and benefit the people of this section for Germany must come here for a large supply of her foodstuffs. Other and greater markets are cut off from her for a generation or more and I foresee for this section great prosperity if the present national policies are permitted to continue and the election is not thrown into the House with all the attendant uncertainties.

"I desire also to impress upon you also that in this Dawes plan of setting aside a yearly amount to pay on reparations no saving is to be made that will lower the standard of living.

"The plan if it can be worked out without interruption will put Germany back into active production and this chance to work and to do something toward getting back on solid ground."

W. P. TUTTLE LEAVES MUCH TO CHARITIES

Former North Dakotan Bequeaths Over $800,000 to Various Institutions

WILL IS PUBLISHED

One Son Receives More Than $500,000 as Residuary Legatee of Estate

The will of William P. Tuttle, former resident of North Dakota, owner of much land in this state and one-time candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District, left more than $800,000 to charities, according to his will, the terms of which are published in the Chicago Daily News.

Mr. Tuttle died in Chicago October 12. Among those attending his funeral were Aubrey Lawrence of Fargo and Dr. M. W. Roan of Bismarck, both close friends of Mr. Tuttle, who visited Bismarck last summer. Dr. Roan, who returned from Chicago last night, where he visited his brother, who had been ill, said there was a remarkable floral display at the Tuttle rites.

Legacies Made

The Chicago Daily News Story of the will follows:

William Pierce Tuttle, for forty-five years an active member of the Chicago board of trade and a world traveler and philanthropist, who died Oct. 12, left an estate approximating $1,000,000, of which more than $800,000 goes to charity in nineteen specific bequests. The will was filed for probate by Attorney William B. Snowhawk.

An only son—William J. Tuttle of Oak Park—is the residuary legatee and receives more than $500,000 by the terms of the will.

In the position for letters testamentary filed, together with the will, on behalf of Joseph Simons, vice-president of the board of trade, and Seward M. Gunderson, real-estate broker, who were nominated as executors and trustees, the value of Mr. Tuttle's ranch lands and farm holdings in California and the Dakotas is set at $208,000. The rest of the estate consists of stocks, bonds and real-estate mortgages.

Trust Fund for Son

After providing for his son, William J. Tuttle, in money, lands and trust fund to the aggregate principal amount of $500,000, Mr. Tuttle directed that, should the estate, after all deductions for inheritance tax and other purposes have been made, exceed $1,500,000, then an additional $100,000 in cash shall be paid by the trustees to the heir. The trust fund created provides that $250,000 of the total bequest shall be set aside until William J. Tuttle reaches the age of 50, if living, and to his heirs otherwise. Meanwhile he is to receive the income.

The nineteen specific bequests—including one of $20,000 to the Daily News Fresh-Air Fund—cover a wide range of charities, in which those founded primarily for children predominate.

Charities Listed

The executors and trustees are directed by the terms of the Tuttle will to convert into cash as soon as possible after payment of the bequests to William J. Tuttle and one of $10,000 to a cousin, Elizabeth A. Pierce of Rutland, N. Y., the balance of the estate for the purpose of distribution among the following named beneficiaries:

- To the Foundlings' home, $40,000
  - To Hull House, $40,000
  - To the Illinois Industrial School of Agriculture and Manual Training for Boys at Glenwood, Ill., $80,000
  - To the Chicago Art Institute, $80,000
  - To the Chicago Bureau of Associated Charities, $40,000
  - To the Visiting Nurse association of Chicago, $40,000
  - To the Chicago Orphan asylum, $40,000
  - To the Chicago Daily News Fresh-Air Fund, $20,000
  - To the Home for Destitute Cripple Children, $20,000
  - To the Mary Thompson Hospital of Chicago for Women and Children, $20,000
  - To the Protestant hospital, $40,000
  - To the Presbyterian hospital, $40,000
  - To the Norwegian Lutheran Children's home, Edison Park, $80,000
  - To the National Park Seminary Day Nursery, $40,000
  - To the Norwegian Lutheran Bethesda Home association, $40,000
  - To the Children's Receiving orphanage, Maywood, $40,000
  - To the Elizabeth Charlton Day Nursery association, Oak Park, $20,000
  - To the Hepzibah home, Oak Park, $40,000

Texas Candy Man Puts Over Loan Of $50,000,000

J. L. ARLITT

By NEA Service

Austin, Tex., Oct. 23.—Ten years ago J. L. Arlitt was just an obscure candy merchant here.

Then he began buying municipal bonds—and selling them, too.

Today Wall Street sits up and takes notice of him.

He has foisted a $50,000,000 loan to the Mexican government.

A trip to Mexico City, after the Oregon government had defaulted in the debt agreement with the international bankers, clinched the deal.

He told Minister of Finance Pani he would take up where the bankers had left off. And Pani agreed.

Mexico expects to meet the debt through receipts from the oil production tax.

5 MURDERERS TO BE HANGED IN MONTREAL

Last Minute Attempts To Be Made to Keep Them From Gallows

Montreal, Canada, Oct. 23.—For the first time in the criminal history of Montreal, five men will be hanged for the same crime in the Mordecai jail here Friday.

They were condemned to death on July 23 last for the murder of Henry Clever, chauffeur of the collection car of the Bank of Montreal.

The quintet are: Louis Morel, ex-Montreal detective and established athlete, Arthegnon Divienne alias Tony Frank, at one time a master mind of Montreal's "underworld," Giuseppe Santini, Frank Lombardi and Mike Valentini, A south bandit, Leo Davis, was condemned to die so but the production of new evidence caused his execution to be postponed until November 6.

Last minute attempts to save the murderers from the scaffold will be made in Ottawa tomorrow morning. With the exception of Morel the murderers spent most of the time in prayer. Morel continues to engage in physical exercise in his cell.

ONTARIO VOTES ON LIQUOR

Toronto, Ontario, Oct. 23.—Voters of the province of Ontario today are balloting on the sixth referendum or the liquor question to be held in 200 years. The issue in today's voting is whether the sale of intoxicants or whether the Ontario temperance act passed in 1916 shall remain in effect.

MONTANA INDIANS PLEDGE VOTES TO PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, DAWES

Billings, Oct. 23.—The vote next month of the Indians of Montana— their first casting of the ballot— was pledged to Coolidge and Dawes last night in a dramatic declaration by the venerable chief, Plenty Cope, of the Crow nation, at a Republican meeting here, addressed by former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

The vote of the Crows alone is about 1,600 with possibly a lesser number of Flatheads. Standing on the stage of the theater, surrounded by lesser chiefs of the tribe in bow bonnets and regalia of rank and authority and peering at their audience through the tribal smoked glasses, the Indians made their pledge through their aged chief.

With the chiefs' pledge went an appeal for honorable, honest campaigning and voting, the dignity of which stirred the audience to tremendous enthusiasm.

Six Men Work at Leisure in Blasting Vault of the First State Bank of Arlington, While Inhabitants Watch From Darkened Windows or From Shadows of Buildings.

Arlington, Minn., Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Eight bandits took possession of Arlington early today, locked up the night putoutman, leisurely blasted their way into the First State Bank vault and finally fled in two automobiles with $150 loot.

Held at bay by occasional intimidating shots fired by the bandits outposts, most of the village's population of 800 persons watched the outlaws' operations from the vantage point of darkened windows or the shadows of outbuildings.

During their operations at the bank the bandits kept the town marshal and two railroad station attaches locked in a refrigerator car and also kept a guard over the two night telephone operators, releasing their victims before they quit the town.

Entering the town at 1:30 a. m. the bandits encountered the marshal, Harry McGovern, father of John F. McGovern of Minnesota football fame, took from him his gun and marched him to the railroad yards, where they placed him in a refrigerator car, leaving two men standing guard.

Hold Operators

Then six bandits went to the railroad station where they cut the telegraph wires leading from the town and then entered the station, taking in charge George McMasson, the operator, and his father.

These two men were marched to the refrigerator car and joined Marshal McGovern in custody.

Going to the telephone office the six bandits cut all outside wires and when the occupants of the office refused to open the door at their demand, they smashed it in, bursting in on the two terrified operators, Miss Mabel Sweeney and Miss Sylvia Geib.

Population Hides

Quitting the fear of the young women, the bandits told them to get back to bed as they would not be harmed, but they left one of their number to stand guard at the telephone office.

The remaining five bandits then went to the First State Bank, pried open a rear window and entered. Several shots were fired skyward by the bandits as they left the outpost in front of the bank.

FARMER GORED BY IRATE BULL

Wife Drags Body of Husband Through Fence

Jamestown, Oct. 23.—W. Greb, prominent farmer near Kenal, in northern Stutsman county, was gored to death by a bull. He had gone to the barn to get the cows in and staying longer than usual Mrs. Greb became uneasy and went in search of him. She found the bull standing over her husband's body. She was able to get the animal off a short distance, which enabled her to crawl through the fence and drag Mr. Greb through the fence. He died a few hours later.

SCHOOL HOUSE IS BURNED

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 23.—Agent County Attorney J. A. Jorgensen was called to the Jamestown district Tuesday to investigate the burning of a school house there and the apparent attempt to burn another. Mr. Jorgensen could find no clues to who was responsible for these acts nor learn of any reason. The one school house was burned to the ground and the other had been entered, all the windows broken, the desks turned upside down and many of the school books crammed into the stove, apparently with the intention of burning.

EMBARGO MAY BE ISSUED IN NEXT 10 DAYS

Terminal Elevators at Twin Cities and Duluth Are Said Near Filled

SHIPMENTS ARE HEAVY

Cooperation of Country Elevators in Holding Grain Is Asked

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—An embargo stopping every grain car from moving into Minneapolis or Duluth will have to be enacted within 10 days unless country shippers cooperate by holding back their grain shipments, said a bulletin issued today by the Northwest Regional Advisory Board.

Heavy shipments from the country to the Twin Cities and Duluth continue daily, the bulletin says, and points out that the elevators will reach their capacity within 10 days if shipments continue at the present rate.

Issuance of the bulletin followed a meeting of the board at Aberdeen when the joint terminal grain committee was given power to do whatever it sees fit to meet the emergency. P. J. Coleman, is chairman of the committee. Its first act was to make the appeal to shippers for cooperation, with the announcement of an embargo will follow if that fails.

SEE EMBARGO COMING

Frank Milhollan and W. C. McDonnell, members of the North Dakota Railroad Commission, who returned last night from Aberdeen, S. D. where they, with a number of Fargo and Grand Forks men attending the meeting of the Northwest Regional Advisory Board, today confirmed reports of the seriousness of the grain situation at terminals. The receipts of grain at the terminals in Minneapolis and Duluth far exceed the outgoing grain. Mr. Milhollan said The Great Northern and Soo lines furnished the meeting with the number of cars of grain en route to Minneapolis and Duluth and also the number being returned.

It the present rate of shipments to the terminals continues the railroads would face a car shortage within 10 days, they said, because the cars are not being returned fast enough, and the terminal elevators are near the choking point. There is plenty of railroad equipment to move the grain, if the cars can be unloaded and returned. Mr. Milhollan said. There may be a demand for grain at the terminal markets in the next 10 days, which will make possible the avoidance of the embargo, he said, but it now looks as if it will come. The North Dakota men, Mr. Milhollan said, argued that if an embargo should come it should be sectional, and should not apply to northern North Dakota, where farmers are just getting into the midst of their threshing. They should have a chance to "catch up," he said. This sectional embargo idea was voted down.

There are no country elevators choked in North Dakota, Mr. Milhollan said, because the railroads have been moving grain fast.

Another feature, Mr. Milhollan said, is that much of the grain now being shipped is wet, and railroad cannot hold it on cars long as it would heat and there would be great loss. So, if they can't get it into terminals they cannot ship it.

FOUR SPEAKERS BILLED HERE

Frazier, Sorlie, Thoresen, Sinclair to Speak

Four speakers will appear in Bismarck on Friday night, October 24, at 8 p. m. in the LeFollette Rally. It is announced they are U. S. Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Congressman James H. Sinclair, A. G. Sorlie, candidate for Governor, and T. H. H. Thoresen, candidate for Attorney-General.

The speakers will divide their time between Bismarck and Mandan, meeting being held in both cities. The speakers have been campaigning in teams, and their scheduled happened to bring them to Bismarck at the same time, so that the meeting with four speakers was arranged.

TRIBUNE FINDS SPANISH WOMAN

After other efforts to locate her, the Spanish Foreign Office, through the Spanish Vice-Consul at Chicago and Governor Nestor's office, asked the newspapers to help find Mrs. Martina Saez Rueda in North Dakota. Two days after an item appeared in the Bismarck Tribune of the efforts to locate her, a letter was received at the Governor's office from a woman at Dickinson stating that she had read in The Tribune of the effort, and that the woman sought was living with her.

SEES COOLIDGE RETURN AS OF WORLD IMPORT

Ambassador to Germany, in Bismarck Today, Declares Election Means Much

TALKS OF DAWES PLAN

Coolidge Administration Has Done Much to Help Germany, He Says

Alanson B. Houghton, United States Ambassador to Germany, speaking before a group of business and professional men at a luncheon at the Grand Pacific this noon, stressed the importance of the Dawes plan in the restoration of stable conditions in Germany. He is here today and in Mandan tomorrow conferring with people and informing them of actual conditions in Germany and the mental attitude of Germans toward the policies adopted by the Coolidge administration for the relief of Germany and its economic recovery.

Judge Nuessle presided at the luncheon and introduced Mr. Houghton, who has served with distinction in Germany during a period of more than three years. In a few preliminary remarks he gave a very vivid picture of what Europe and more especially of what Germany has gone through in her struggle to regain her feet and move forward to a stable place among the powers of the world.

He urged a continuation of the Coolidge administration both from the standpoint of Germany's recovery and as good business for the people of the Northwest. He declared that if the election were thrown into the house, that the foreign policy which has resulted in the Dawes plan would be retarded and that no one could foretell what would result.

The Dawes plan as explained by Mr. Houghton sets up a credit through which Germany can function economically and work her way out. "In Germany he said," they have the plant, the great and the great industrial organization but no capital. The Dawes plan provides this very necessary and essential factor if Germany is to produce and move forward and pay the terms of the indemnity.

"Do the German people willingly support the Dawes plan?" Mr. Houghton asked and answered:

"It is my conviction that at least 85 percent of them do and possibly 90 percent of them do. Most of the German people pin their whole faith to the plan. It is supported by the Reichstag, all the major parties. My conviction is in the various sections of Germany report from 75 percent to as high as 95 percent for the plan."

Is a Sane Plan

"And why would they not? It is a perfectly sane plan. It sets up a scheme of savings over a period of years and as Germany becomes prosperous she can pay under it. Embargoes must be eliminated and Germany must enter the world markets again. Some of the money furnished Germany in the way of a loan and a reestablishment of trade relations through the Dawes plan will flow to this Northwest country and benefit the people of this section for Germany must come here for a large supply of her foodstuffs. Other and nearer markets are cut off from her for a generation or more and I foresee for this section great prosperity if the present national policies are permitted to continue and the election is not thrown into the House with all the attendant uncertainties."

"I desire also to impress upon you also that in this Dawes plan of setting aside a yearly amount to pay on reparations no saving is to be made that will lower the standard of living."

"The plan if it can be worked out without interruption will put Germany back into active production and this chance to work and to do something toward getting back on solid ground."

W. P. TUTTLE LEAVES MUCH TO CHARITIES

Former North Dakotan Bequeaths Over $800,000 to Various Institutions

WILL IS PUBLISHED

One Son Receives More Than $500,000 as Residuary Legatee of Estate

The will of William P. Tuttle, former resident of North Dakota, owner of much land in this state and one-time candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District, left more than $800,000 to charities, according to his will, the terms of which are published in the Chicago Daily News.

Mr. Tuttle died in Chicago October 12. Among those attending his funeral were Aubrey Lawrence of Fargo and Dr. M. W. Roan of Bismarck, both close friends of Mr. Tuttle, who visited Bismarck last summer. Dr. Roan, who returned from Chicago last night, where he visited his brother, who had been ill, said there was a remarkable floral display at the Tuttle rites.

Legacies Made

The Chicago Daily News Story of the will follows:

William Pierce Tuttle, for forty-five years an active member of the Chicago board of trade and a world and philanthropist, who died Oct. 12, left an estate approximating $1,600,000, of which more than $800,000 goes to charity in nineteen specific bequests. The will was filed for probate by Attorney William B. Snowhawk.

An only son—William J. Tuttle of Oak Park—is the residuary legatee and receives more than $500,000 by the terms of the will.

In the petition for letters testamentary filed, together with the will, on behalf of Joseph Simons, vice-president of the board of trade, and Seward M. Gunderson, real-estate broker, who were nominated as executors and trustees, the value of Mr. Tuttle's ranch lands and farm holdings in California and the Dakotas and realty in the city of Chicago is set at $208,000. The rest of the estate consists of stocks, bonds and real-estate mortgages.

Trust Fund for Son

After providing for his son, William J. Tuttle, the will provides a trust fund to the aggregate principal amount of $500,000. Mr. Tuttle directed that, should the estate, after all deductions for inheritance tax and other purposes have been made, exceed $1,500,000, then an additional $100,000 in cash shall be paid by the trustees to the heir.

The trust fund created provides that $250,000 of the total bequest shall be set aside until William J. Tuttle reaches the age of 50, if living, and to his heirs otherwise. Meanwhile he is to receive the income.

The nineteen specific bequests—totaling $240,000—include:

To the Daily News Fresh-Air Fund—cover a wide range of charities, in which those founded primarily for children predominate.

Charities Listed

The executors and trustees are directed by the terms of the Tuttle will to convert into cash as soon as possible after payment of the bequests to William J. Tuttle and one of $10,000 to a cousin, Elizabeth A. Pierce of Rutland, N. Y., the balance of the estate for the purpose of distribution among the following named beneficiaries:

To the Foundlings' home, $40,000.
To the Hull House, $40,000.
To the Illinois Industrial School of Agriculture and Manual Training for Boys at Glenwood, Ill., $80,000.
To the Chicago Art Institute, $80,000.
To the Chicago Bureau of Associated Charities, $40,000.
To the Visiting Nurse association of Chicago, $40,000.
To the Chicago Orphan asylum, $40,000.
To the Chicago Daily News Fresh-Air Fund, $20,000.
To the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, $20,000.
To the Mary Thompson Hospital of Chicago for Women and Children, $20,000.
To the Provident hospital, $40,000.
To the Presbyterian hospital, $40,000.
To the Norwegian Lutheran Children's home, Edison Park, $80,000.
To the National Park Seminary Day Nursery, $40,000.
To the Norwegian Lutheran Bethesda Home association, $40,000.
To the Children's Receiving orphanage, Maywood, $40,000.
To the Elizabeth Charlton Day Nursery association, Oak Park, $20,000.
To the Hepzibah home, Oak Park, $40,000.

5 MURDERERS
TO BE HANGED
IN MONTREAL

Last Minute Attempts To Be Made to Keep Them From Gallows

Montreal, Canada, Oct. 23.—For the first time in the criminal history of Montreal, five men will be hanged for the same crime in Mordecai jail here Friday.

They were condemned to death on July 23 last for the murder of Henley Clerox, chauffeur of the collection car of the Bank of Montreal.

The quietest are: Louis Morel, ex-Montreal detective and erstwhile athlete; Arthangelo Divencenzo alias Tony Frank, at one time a master mind of Montreal's "underworld"; Giuseppe Serafini, Frank Gambino and Mike Valentino. A sixth hand, Leo Davis, was condemned to die also but the production of new evidence caused his execution to be postponed until November 6.

Last minute attempts to save the murderers from the scaffold will be made in Ottawa tomorrow morning. With the exception of Morel, the murderers spent most of their time in prayer. Morel continues to engage in physical exercise in his cell.

The vote of the Crows alone is about 1,600 with possibly a lesser

Six Men Work at Leisure in Blasting Vault of the First State Bank of Arlington, While Inhabitants Watch From Darkened Windows or From Shadows of Buildings.

Arlington, Minn., Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Eight bandits took possession of Arlington early today, locked up the night patrolman, leisurely blasted their way into the First State Bank vault and finally fled in two automobiles with $150 loot.

Held at bay by occasional intimidating shots fired by the bandit outposts, most of the village's population of 800 persons watched the outlaws' operations from the vantage point of darkened windows or the shadows of outbuildings.

During their operations at the bank the bandits kept the town marshal and two railroad station attaches locked in a refrigerator car and also kept a guard over the two night telephone operators, releasing their victims before they quit the town.

Entering the town at 1:30 a. m. the bandits encountered the marshal, Harry McGovern, father of John F. McGovern of Minnesota football fame, took from him his gun and marched him to the railroad yards, where they placed him in a refrigerator car, leaving two men standing guard.

Hold Operators

Then six bandits went to the railroad station where they cut the telegraph wires leading from the town and then entered the station, taking in charge George McMason, the operator, and his three men.

These two men were marched to the refrigerator car and joined Marshal McGovern in custody.

Going to the telephone office the six bandits cut all outside wires and when the occupants of the office refused to open the door at their demand, they smashed it in, bursting in on the two terrified operators, Miss Mabel Sweeney and Miss Sylvia Geib.

Population Hides

Quieting the fears of the young women, the bandits told them to get back to bed as they would not be harmed, but they left one of their number to stand guard at the telephone office.

The remaining five bandits then went to the First State Bank, pried open a rear window and entered. Several shots were fired skyward by the bandits as they left the outposts in front of the bank.

FARMER GORED
BY IRATE BULL

Wife Drags Body of Husband Through Fence

Jamestown, Oct. 23.—W. Greb, prominent farmer near Kensal, in northern Stutsman county, was gored to death by a bull. He had gone to the barn to get the cows in and staying longer than usual Mrs. Greb became uneasy and went in search of him. She found the bull standing over her husband's body. She was able to beat the animal off a short distance, which enabled her to crawl through the fence and drag Mr. Greb through the fence. He died a few hours later.

SCHOOL HOUSE IS BURNED

Jamestown, N. D., Oct. 23.—Assistant County Attorney J. A. Jorgenson was called to the Clementsville district Tuesday to investigate the burning of a school house there and the apparent attempt to burn another.

Mr. Jorgenson could find no clues to who was responsible for these acts nor learn of any reason. The one school house was burned to the ground and the other had been entered, all the windows broken, the desks turned upside down and many of the school books crammed into the stove, apparently with the intention of burning.

EMBARGO MAY BE ISSUED IN NEXT 10 DAYS

Terminal Elevators at Twin Cities and Duluth Are Said Near Filled

SHIPMENTS ARE HEAVY

Cooperation of Country Elevators in Holding Grain Is Asked

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—An embargo stopping every grain car from moving into Minneapolis or Duluth will have to be enacted within 10 days unless country shippers cooperate by holding back their grain shipments, said a bulletin issued today by the Northwest Regional Advisory Board.

Heavy shipments from the country to the Twin Cities and Duluth continue daily, the bulletin says, and points out that the elevators will reach their capacity within 10 days if shipments continue at the present rate.

Issuance of the bulletin followed a meeting of the board at Aberdeen when the joint terminal grain committee was given power to do whatever it sees fit to meet the emergency. F. J. Coleman, is chairman of the committee. Its first act was to make the appeal to shippers for cooperation, with the announcement of an embargo will follow if that fails.

SEE EMBARGO COMING

Frank Mihollan and W. C. McDonnell, members of the North Dakota Railroad Commission, who returned last night from Aberdeen, S. D. where they, with a number of Fargo and Grand Forks men attended the meeting of the Northwest Regional Advisory Board, today confirmed reports of the seriousness of the grain situation at terminals. The receipts of grain at the terminals in Minneapolis and Duluth far exceeds the outgoing grain, Mr. Mihollan said. The Great Northern and Soo lines furnished the meeting with the number of cars of grain en route to Minneapolis and Duluth and also the number being returned.

It is the present rate of shipments to the terminals continues the railroads would face a car shortage within 10 days, they said, because the cars are not being returned fast enough, and the terminal elevators are near the choking point. There is plenty of rail equipment to move the grain, if the cars can be unloaded and returned, Mr. Mihollan said.

There may be a demand for grain at the terminal markets in the next 10 days which will make possible the avoidance of the embargo, he said, but it now looks as if it will come. The North Dakota men, Mr. Mihollan said, argued that if an embargo should come it should be sectional, and should not apply to northern North Dakota, where farmers are just getting into the midst of their threshing. They should have a chance to "catch up," he said. This sectional embargo idea was voted down.

There are no country elevators choked in North Dakota, Mr. Mihollan said, because the railroads have been moving grain fast.

Another feature, Mr. Mihollan said, is that much of the grain now being shipped is wet, and railroads cannot hold it on cars as long as it would heat and there would be great loss. So, if they can't get it into terminals they cannot ship it.

FOUR SPEAKERS BILLED HERE

Frazier, Sorlie, Thoresen, Sinclair to Speak

Four speakers will appear in Bismarck on Friday night, October 24, at 8 p. m. in a LaFollette Rally, it is announced. They are U. S. Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Congressman James H. Sinclair, A. G. Sorlie, candidate for Governor, and T. H. Thoresen, candidate for Attorney-General.

The speakers will divide their time between Bismarck and Mandan, meetings being held in both cities. The speakers have been campaigning in teams, and their schedules happened to bring them to Bismarck at the same time, so that the meeting with four speakers was arranged.

She is being held for extradition to Boston, where she is wanted on four indictments charging conspiracy and other offenses. While she told the police that her name was Pelrose and that she had been employed in the laundry for two years, the police declared she was Helen Barker, alias Sheila Barton, and had a dozen other names.

COOLIDGE TO TALK THURSDAY

Last Address of Campaign To Be Made

Washington, Oct. 22. President Coolidge devoted considerable time yesterday to preparation of the address he will deliver here Thursday night before the meeting of the eastern division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The president intends to make this his last extended speech before the election and in it to outline the condition of the country, the results of the administration's policies and its future hopes and plans, particularly in business and domestic affairs.

Arrangements have been made to give the address the widest publicity available by radio and present plans call for it to be broadcast as far as the Pacific coast. Mr. Coolidge is to start speaking at 9:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

The enthusiastic reports on the trend of the campaign were presented yesterday to the president by various callers, one of whom, S. T. Meserve, of Chicago and of Iowa, said the Republican national ticket would carry Illinois and Iowa by comfortable margins.

"REAL CHRIST" IS CLAIMED

Russian Scientist to Dispute Present Religious Works

Moscow, Oct. 22.—Saint Basil the Great was the real Christ, according to Prof. Nicholas Morosoff, Russian scientist and philosopher, who has just completed a sensational work entitled "Christ" which is to appear in seven volumes.

Prof. Morosoff was imprisoned by the czar for 20 years because of his alleged connection with the secret organization which assassinated the czar. He asserts it is not true that Saint Basil, or Christ, was crucified. He asserts that he was only punished by being tied to a tree, and he fixes the date of this event as March 21 in the year of 308 of the present era.

It is asserted by Prof. Morosoff that Saint Basil, or Christ, lived 11 years after this date. The existence of the 12 apostles, he says, is a mere myth which arose over the fact that Saint Basil, or Christ, was surrounded by a group of pathologists.

Prof. Morosoff says he bases his conviction upon intensive study of astronomy, astrology, philosophy and history, while he was in prison. He was guided by "astronomical and rationalistic methods," he goes on, and declares that the events of the eighth or ninth century, which he terms not the Christian era but the Alexandrian era.

Basil the Great was born at Caesarea in Cappadocia, Asia Minor, in the year 329 and died there on January 1, in the year 379. He was one of the fathers of the Greek church and bishop of Caesarea and Metropolitan of Cappadocia from 370 to the year of his death.

Basil was a powerful supporter of the orthodox faith in the struggle with Arianism. He wrote, among other things, commentaries on the scriptures.

RAISES 7,000 BUSHELS WHEAT

New England, N. D., Oct. 22.—H. J. Haagenstad of Midway, raised over 7,000 bushels of grain the past season and most of it was No. 1 wheat. He farmed 47½ acres of land and reaped a real harvest from his labors. He had some choice Kots wheat which averaged 28 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Haagenstad tried out some Midway Durum wheat this year and as this crop averaged 25 bushels he was well pleased with the result. He had barley that went 25 bushels to the acre and his Marquis wheat averaged 16 bushels. He had a fine crop of oats and his barley averaged better than 20 bushels. He is ready to admit that this was one of the most profitable seasons he has ever had. His farm is located a few miles north of Midway.

CRY OF FIRE BRINGS DEATH

Panic in Theater Follows Panic in Kentucky Show House

Newark, N. J., Oct. 22.—The shadow of death lingered over three of the Newark theatres 30 victims who were crushed in a panic last night when a terrified spectator cried "fire." The blaze, which at no time endangered the safety of the patrons, cost the life of 10-year-old Elmer Massick and resulted in injuries to 25 others persons, seven of whom are in a serious condition.

Only a few frantic spectators thought to use a second exit in the theater. Some led from a stairway to the heads of those struggling below, and at one time men and women were piled up in the passage way. The blaze was confined to a projection room suspended from the ceiling in front of the theatre.

What the group of Maxwell-Chrysler engineers responsible for the good Maxwell of today have accomplished is just this—

They have raised four-cylinder motoring to a plane of fineness and comfort heretofore assumed to be impossible in a car of this type.

They have accomplished it not alone through the insistence on fine manufacturing and the use of first grade materials. They have also employed engineering innovations that practically eliminate

You will especially appreciate these higher qualities when you make a country run of considerable distance.

Where you used to return from such a trip thoroughly weary, now with the good Maxwell you can drive all day without fatigue.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense.

The High Cost of Postponing Permanent Highway Building

Poor motor roads stifle industry and agriculture, waste huge sums annually in high maintenance costs, and greatly increase gasoline, tire and repair bills.

There is not a state, not a county, not a community, that isn't paying a heavy price for having too few permanent roads.

There are still many sections of the country—even whole states—that are trying to operate twentieth century traffic over nineteenth century roads.

This is costing millions of dollars every year, and will keep on costing millions until we have well developed permanent highway systems everywhere.

Even what we often call the more progressive communities are far behind the demands of modern highway traffic with its 16,000,000 motor vehicles.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to Mexico, we need more Concrete roads—the roads for twentieth century traffic.

Your highway officials want to be of the greatest possible service to you. Get behind them with ways and means that will provide more Concrete roads and streets. Such an investment will pay you big dividends year after year.

CHINESE ARMY REVOLTS, SAYS PEKING REPORT

Part of 11th Division Declared to Have Seized the City's Gates

Tientsin, China, Oct. 23.—(By the A. P.)—Portions of the 11th division of the Chinese national army under command of Feng Yu-shiang, the "Christian general," revolted at Peking this morning, seized the city's gates, cut all telegraph and telephone lines and stopped all train service, according to reliable information reaching here.

General Feng and his army were supposed to have been at Jehol, about 100 miles northeast of Peking, where they were supposed to stop an expected advance of the Manchurian army of General Chang Tso-lin, who is making war on the central government at Peking.

Apparently Gen. Feng never progressed beyond the great wall.

Shanghai, China, Oct. 23.—Peking was suddenly cut off from telegraph communication with all outside points this morning.

The reason for the isolation of the city has not been ascertained here.

New York Cast For "Merton of Movies" Virtually Intact

"Merton of the Movies," George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly's stage version of Harry Leon Wilson's graphic story of the world of films, is to make its first visit to this city on Monday, October 27, at the Auditorium.

The attraction is under the direction of George C. Taylor and Hugh Ford, who are the producers. There are more than thirty speaking parts in the play.

Those who have read "Merton of the Movies" in serial form in the Saturday Evening Post, will recall how its "movie" fan here, reading with soulful eyes the magazine featuring his screen favorites, becomes thrilled with the desire to enter that rosy life, and as a step forward to the achievement of this ambition, how he obtains first aid from a correspondence school of acting. He then departs for Hollywood, and his adventures in that glamorous land of romance are at once pathetic, laughable and fascinating. After suffering many privations and disappointments, Merton is assisted to success by the Montague Girl.

The comedy, "Merton of the Movies," was produced at the Cort Theatre, New York, about twenty months ago, where it remained a solid year. Glenn Hunter, the clever young actor, created the title role of Merton Gill and played it throughout the metropolitan engagement. It was due to Mr. Hunter's great ability as an actor, in a great measure, that the comedy has attained such signal success, and he is now the star of the organization.

Mr. Hunter will be supported here by substantially the same cast seen with him throughout the long New York run, and prominent among them are Jean Ford (who played the Montague Girl), Edward M. Favor, Bert Melville, John Webster, Fanchon, Campbell, Rommie Callender, Eugene Ordway, Matthew Smith, Jr., Tom Hadaway, George Prentice, William Adler, Billy Janney, and others.

There are four acts—six scenes in all—in "Merton of the Movies," more than thirty speaking parts.

France Far Behind U. S. in Use of Autos

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London, Oct. 23.—The French make very fine autos and they hold annually a gorgeous auto show in the Grand Palais in Paris and Frenchmen are conspicuous among the speed-fiends in auto races. But as a nation they are miles behind us when it comes to general and popular use of gas-propelled vehicles.

Part of this is probably due to the war and the wreck it left. Part is due to the conservatism of the French peasant farmers and of the shop keeper class. At any rate, in all France in the present year there are only 656,383 machines, as against 200 in 1894, 17,107 in 1904 and 107,535 in 1914.

Mayor Hylan and his New York police are not the only ones who are setting themselves up as censors of what people shall read and of what they shall see in the theaters.

Turkey has just shown that she is up to date by having a prosecution against the distinguished Turkish novelist of Constantinople, Hussein Rahmi Bey.

The prosecutor general urged condemnation of the book "Am I Mad?" on the ground that it was detrimental to public morals and could not be read in the family.

The author defended himself on the ground of realism. The court unanimously held that the high moral purpose of the author was to show the present-day Turkish society. It, therefore, dismissed the complaint.

The cocktail has just received two black eyes, one from the English and one from the French. In England a group of doctors recently declared that the cocktail was bad business for the human organism and ridiculed the idea that it was a stimulant of a healthy appetite. The French attack was of a different order. The committee of the Academie Francaise, which is compiling the standard dictionary of the language, had before it the question of admitting the word "cocktail," which is universally understood in all the best and many of the worst bars in France. But the committee sternly decided that the word meant nothing and even in a French form was alien to the language.

At The Movies

AT-THE CAPITOL
Dorothy Dalton and Jack Holt head a phenomenal acting cast in the big screen version of Louis Joseph Vance's "The Lone Wolf," an S. E. V. Taylor production which is the current attraction at the Capitol theatre tomorrow and Saturday.

Miss Dalton is seen as the trusted agent of "The Pack" while Holt plays Michael Lanyard "The Lone Wolf." This duo becomes the center of a series of thrilling scenes. "The Pack" pursues Lanyard, wanting the plans he has taken from one of its most notorious members. Lanyard outwits the mannikins only to surrender the plans when one villainous Eckstrom gets the drop on him and Miss Dalton. There is a working love story. Miss Dalton as Lucy Shannon and Lanyard forming its main theme. The picture is full of excitement and thrills, the air scenes in particular taking one's breath away. Lovers of melodrama, tense excitement and thrills should not miss this unusual production.

HAVE YOU A DOUBLET?
One really never knows. Supposing you met somebody face to face who looked exactly like you! Wouldn't it be rather an uncanny feeling?

There is just such a situation in "Cornered," the picture which will be shown at the Eltinge Theatre Friday and Saturday.

An inhabitant of the underworld, Mary Brennan meets her double in a young woman of the fashionable set, heiress to millions. Her pals manage to get her established in the fashionable household as the mistress, but complications begin to arise very quickly when the real heiress returns unexpectedly. Mary is sure of imprisonment, but luck is with her, and she manages to convince the authorities that she is not the thief. Hours of uneasiness and impatience follow, while Mary still fears the worst.

The cast is a typical Warner combination of well known screen stars, including Marie Prevost, who takes the leading role; John Roche, Rockwell Fellers, Raymond Hatton and Cissy Fitzgerald.

WAR ISSUE IS BEING FACED BY LUTHERANS

To Be Considered During the Course of Convention
Held in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The United Lutheran church in America at the close of the first day of its convention here faced the issue of whether a Christian may ever justify war. On the one hand was citation of the Augsburg confession, 394 years old, the first and still the recognized confession of the church; and the other a demand from various Lutherans for a new pronouncement. This is the anniversary of the signing of the Augsburg confession said to be first pronouncement of a protestant body on the war question.

The issue was outlined in the report of Rev. Dr. M. G. Scherer, of Philadelphia, secretary. He said the issue was before the church in the form of our memorials from many synods, and in the report of the committee on social and moral warfare.

The report of the committee, of which Dr. E. P. Pfatteicher, is chairman, held in part, "to declare unequivocally that 'war is sin' is to assert that the powers that declare war are not ordained of God and have acted against conscience in their declaration. . . . We believe that article 16 of the Augsburg confession: 'Christians may engage in a just war and act as soldiers' is a correct interpretation of the teachings of Jesus."

Stating the case for the other side, Dr. S. G. Treseler, of New York, president of the synod of New York and New England, said that the Augsburg confession was adopted in 1530 in response to a demand by the German emperor for a statement from the Lutherans.

After lively discussions it was voted to merge the five Lutheran mission boards working in the home field into the board of American missions, advocates of the merger declaring that it will result in greater efficiency.

The bodies merged are the board of home missions and church extension, northwestern, the center of an immigrant mission board, West Indies Mission board, and the Jewish mission committee.

COMMITTEE TO FIND HOSPITAL SITE SELECTED

Legion Committee to Recommend Place For New Hospital in Northwest

WILL GET OUT VOTE

Legion in State Votes Cooperation in Campaign for 100 Per Cent Vote

The committee which was named to recommend a site for a hospital in the Northwest for tubercular ex-service men has been completed and soon will begin inspection of sites, it was stated by Jack Williams, state adjutant of the American Legion, at a meeting of Lloyd Street Post here last night.

The committee is composed of Dr. Charles Mayo, for Minnesota; William Stern of Fargo for North Dakota and a representative of South Dakota. A number of sites in three states are to be inspected. It is understood Bismarck is on the list. Mr. Williams told of the effort to have the Veterans Bureau establish such a hospital in the Northwest, saying that it had been found ineffective to send disabled men thousands of miles from their homes for treatment.

The state adjutant, in a talk before the post, stressed the efforts of the Legion to cooperate with other organizations in getting out a full vote November 4. The Legion national headquarters is furthering the movement, and in North Dakota the posts are cooperating 100 percent, he said. The adjutant emphasized that it was not a partisan move, but a part of the Americanism work of the Legion, the organization believing it was the duty of every citizen to express his views at the polls, and that the country would be safe with majority rule.

The Bismarck Post voted cooperation, adopted a resolution and authorized Commander Phil Webb to name a committee to cooperate with other organizations.

The local Post discussed plans for an Armistice Day celebration. There will be a parade in the afternoon on November 11, and exercises. It was recommended that business be asked to suspend during the exercises.

The local post, with others, are planning the usual membership drive. Adjutant Williams told local members the Legion was in fine shape in the state, from the standpoint of finances and membership, the membership being above that of last year.

RAIL RATE BOOST SEEN

Western Roads Considering Proposal For Increase

The state railroad commission is interesting itself in proposals by railroads to readjust rates in the central west by increases ranging from one-half cent to 38 cents a hundred pounds on freight between Chicago, Milwaukee, Peoria, St. Louis and the Twin Cities.

North Dakota is interested, according to E. M. Hendricks, traffic commissioner of the commission, because North Dakota rates from points east are based on the local rate to the Twin Cities and the local rate from the Twin Cities to North Dakota. An increase in rates to the Twin Cities would therefore increase rates to North Dakota, he says.

The matter has not reached public tribunals as yet, being before the traffic committee of the western trunk line roads, according to Mr. Hendricks. They will hear objections at Chicago some time after October 25, after which they may or may not seek authorization for increased rates.

was one of the reputed owners of the Mayflower. John Tuttle came to America in the year 1635 on the ship Planter and settled at Ipswich, Mass.

William Pierce Tuttle's early life was spent on a farm and he always held that a boy who had not grown up in the country had not half the pleasure of life. This belief is reflected in several of the bequests for the training of boys. Originally Mr. Tuttle settled in Belle Plaine, Iowa, following departure from the old home town in 1870, and engaged in the hardware business until he came to Chicago in 1878.

His wife and daughter died some years ago, the latter in early youth, and his son, William J. Tuttle, is the sole survivor. During the last few years Mr. Tuttle maintained his residence at the Chicago Athletic club, but more recently he retired to the Hinsdale sanitarium, where he died.

CAR STOLEN IN MANDAN

State Officer's Car Taken and Burned

O. W. Widmer parked his car in the Mandan depot station grounds last night and the car disappeared. As he was inquiring if anyone had seen the car, two men coming into town reported that the car was at the Mandan depot station about two miles. The car had been stripped of available parts by the thieves, who then touched a match to it.

The car, a Six Six Studebaker, was owned by the state. Widmer offered a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest of the guilty parties.

The car had a bullet hole in it, where a man took a shot at Widmer last summer.

MAJOR IMBRIE WAS SLAIN IN HOSPITAL BED

Crowd of Persians Broke in and Killed Him in Tragic Manner, Envoy Says

RELATES WHOLE STORY

New York, Oct. 23. How Robert Imbrie, American consul at Teheran, was stoned to death by natives as he lay unconscious upon an operating table was related by Joseph F. Kornfeld, United States minister to Persia, just resigned, who returned on the Leviathan with a report of the tragedy which he will submit to the state department at Washington.

"In Teheran as in most Persian cities," Mr. Kornfeld related, "there are numerous drinking fountains where are stationed self-constituted attendants who, in the name of a Mohammedan saint, Abbas, solicit alms. At the time of the Imbrie affair, there had gained wide circulation the story of a miracle that was reputed to have occurred at one of these fountains only a few weeks before.

Was Sacred Spot
"The story was that a native approached this fountain to fill a gourd with water, in the name of Abbas," asked the aims solicitor, "No, in the name of Bahai" replied the gourd bearer. Straightway he was stricken blind for the blasphemy; then, when he dropped to his knees and recanted with a prayer of apology directed to the saint, Abbas, his sight was restored.

"The fountain became the gathering place of thronged thousands, who tied themselves to it and lapped up the trickling water, or fought their way toward it and prayed.

"Imbrie heard of this. One day he strapped on a camera which his aide, named Seymour, drove in a barouche to the miracle spot. Imbrie forced his way through the crowd to take a photograph. The natives surged around him, clamoring and he fled to the barouche and drove away.

"Behind the carriage the infuriated natives ran shouting 'stop him.' The infidel has killed four of the faithful and poisoned the water of the fountain."

Thought Camera Weapon
Although he was not wholly informed of events that immediately followed, said Mr. Kornfeld, the gist of conflicting reports was that the natives believed Imbrie's camera to be a weapon which silently dispatched death.

"They overhauled Seymour in an alleyway where he had taken refuge and mauled him," he continued. "They pursued Imbrie into a tea shop; they clubbed and stoned him until the police rescued him and carried him to a hospital."

"Even then the outraged natives were not satisfied. They clamored for Imbrie's life in atonement to their Mohammedan saint Abbas. They stormed the hospital, battered down the doors and, finding Imbrie unconscious upon an operating table, tore the tiles from the floor and crushed out his life with them."

The state department already was in possession of evidence supporting the story, he related, said Mr. Kornfeld.

After reporting at Washington, Mr. Kornfeld will go to Toledo, Ohio, to assume charge of a synagogogue.

BUY WATER FROM MILKMEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Lorion, 20 miles southwest of here, is buying its water from milkmen since a dynamite fire in a quarry near here caused an artesian well, the town's sole water source, to go dry. The only free water available comes from a trickling spring in an abandoned rock quarry until pipes can be laid to an other spring a mile and a half from town.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state, has given an especially strong characterization of the third party which is promoting the candidacy of Senator R. M. LaFollette. It is best told by direct quotation:

"The Third Party seems to live on suspicion and calumny. It attacks every one and everything but itself. It would have you believe that everything is rotten in business, in finance, in diplomacy. You would think that this is the unhappiest country on earth, whereas it is the one country envied by all; the country of highest wages, of the best living conditions, of the greatest opportunities, where even the poor in every-day life have comforts and conveniences which most of the well-to-do in other countries do not enjoy. It is difficult to thwart economic forces by political action, but there is a short political road to economic distress. You cannot have progress without the security and expansion of enterprise. The extreme radicals have never been able to understand why they could not have the golden eggs after the goose was killed. The dictatorship of the proletariat is the effort to distribute eggs that are no more. It would not take much to destroy our prosperity. All you have to do is to shatter confidence. This would happen if the Third Party should really approach success. This would measurably result if the Third Party could produce a dead-lock in this election. I said the other day that Senator LaFollette was aiming to keep enough electoral votes away from Coolidge to prevent him from having a majority and then to put in Bryan as Vice President, who would become President because of a dead-lock in the House of Representatives. No, indeed! shout the supporters of Senator LaFollette. We will not make Bryan Vice President, they say, but Wheeler. Well, if anything could be worse than to put in Bryan, it would be to put in Wheeler."

WHAT A GERMAN THINKS

No one interested in the restoration of Europe should vote for LaFollette and Wheeler as against Coolidge and Dawes. The operation of the Dawes plan should be of interest to the German people of America who, while they have severed all political ties with the land of their birth, still follow with interest, developments in the restoration of a stable government which as time continues will increase Germany's trade with this nation. This is what Chancellor Marx has to say about the operation of the Dawes plan, a concrete scheme to aid in the restoration of Germany:

"Both the German people and the German Government are keenly interested in a successful conclusion of the negotiations now under way in London. The German people sincerely desire it and are prepared to do everything in their power to accomplish enforcement of the Dawes plan, particularly as the results of the London Conference have yielded a sounder and more healthy basis for resumption of normal relations between Germany and her former enemies than any previously suggested solution of the reparations problem. The German people see in the loan a means of stabilizing Germany's finances, while its failure on the other hand would have a far-reaching detrimental effect on the entire situation and might even mean the collapse of the Dawes plan."

FORD ON LAFOLLETTE

No one can accuse Ford of being particularly friendly to Wall Street. He has been regarded as rather "progressive" in his political ideas, to use an overworked political term which means nothing, but has become almost the sole asset of the LaFollette group. Some politicians get the name progressive attached to them and it proves enough for some people who don't investigate to ascertain whether the label means anything or not.

Mr. Ford does not see anything especially progressive about LaFollette. In a recent interview he said: "LaFollette and other members who fought Muscle Shoals played Wall Street's game knowingly or unknowingly. Wall Street wants it for exploitation. It does not want the people to know the actual cost of power. That would bust the power trust."

And again: "The trouble with him (LaFollette) is that he fails to distinguish between big business and the money interests." Ford's support of Calvin Coolidge is based upon the fact that he sees in Coolidge a safe American to guide the destinies of the Republic through the present crisis. He gives his reasons why he is for Coolidge in the following:

"I haven't changed a particle in my views on Calvin Coolidge. I do not know Mr. Davis, but I do know that President Coolidge comes from a kind of Puritan stock that can do its own thinking. He knows the undercurrents of our national life and he has an invaluable gift for knowing when to say 'no.'"

HERCULES

In love matches you observe the workings of nature's tendency to even things up—restore the balance before specimens of her handiwork get too far from normal. Beauty marries the Beast. Black Eyes wed Blue Eyes. Intellectual mates with Creampuff Brain. Mysterious? Not at all. Just nature restoring the balance.

An exception comes to light in England. Saxson Brown, billed as the world's strongest boy, 19, marries Britain's strongest girl, 16.

The older a man gets the more young people there are.

GOING SOUTH

(Rochester Herald)
Great flocks of birds rising in regular formation from fields, of stubble, or settling on the cat-tails of a marsh, remind the farmers and vacationists that the North will soon be no place for delicate constitutions. The sparrows, the crows, and a few gulls may continue to hunt their meals about the countryside, but most of the other birds soon will be on their way toward more generous latitudes. The annual rush of travel Southward is beginning in birdland.

It is one of the constant and abiding mysteries of nature that the majority of wild birds migrate seasonally, with almost the regularity of the earth's revolutions. There are variations, to be sure, but there are the more mystifying, for they appear to give evidence of a fore-knowledge of the weather. When the spring comes early, so do the migrant feathered hosts. When winter nips at the heels of August, the summer nesting places are abandoned weeks earlier than usual, and the flocks move Southward rapidly, even though the days may still be warm. Usually, the migration is propitious of weather changes, for when the birds take wing early at the close of summer, the breath of winter is felt soon afterward in these Northern lake plains.

Just why the birds should go South when there is no lack of food to be had in the Northern fields is a puzzle to those naturalists who believe migration is a question of food supply. In the tropics there is food aplenty. Having reached Central America or Brazil, therefore, why should the Southern birds ever return to the cold climates from which they flee every autumn? It cannot be food alone that drives them irresistibly Northward in the spring and Southward in the fall, for they leave a land of plenty in the South in the spring, and a Northern land still overflowing with bird food in the fall.

Possibly the future may reveal many of the secrets of nature, but until mankind is able to read the minds of bird-folk, it is not likely that science will be able wholly to explain the great mystery of migration.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE APPLE-TREE FAIRY

"Yes," said Daddy Gander to the Twins as they rode along through the sky on his magic dust-pan, "the tin rooster was right. There isn't any doubt that the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered-Man have gone to housekeeping in the House-That-Jack-Built."

"Oh, look!" cried Nancy. "There is someone beckoning to us from that apple tree. Let's stop and see who it is."

So Daddy Gander said, "What!" to his dust-pan and it stopped in the tip-topmost branch of the apple tree. "Why, hello!" said Nick. "It's the apple-tree fairy who runs the elevator up to the sky."

"I'm glad you haven't forgotten me," said the apple-tree fairy. "I thought I heard someone talking about the House-That-Jack-Built. Was it you?"

"It was me," said Daddy Gander. "Do you know anything about it?" "Do I? Well, I should say so," replied the apple-tree fairy. "I've used to live in an apple tree on Pippin Hill where Jack and Jill and Mrs. John live. Indeed, I was there when Jack built his house. I know all about it. It's got the cutest porch and—"

"I mean do you know where it's gone?" asked Daddy Gander. "It's lost."

"Ants wings and snails horns!" cried the little fairy in surprise. "You don't say so!"

"Oh, yes," said Nancy. "It's gone and we're hunting for it. The tin rooster said it was on Pippin Hill. Piggledy, the black hen, said that they thought the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered-Man had gone to housekeeping in it."

"I don't believe it," said the apple-tree fairy. "They wouldn't do such a thing. Wait a minute! I've an idea. Was there a wind-storm thereabouts when the house disappeared?"

"Not that I know of," said Daddy Gander. "But then it's pretty hard to tell sometimes. We never can be sure in Mother Goose Land whether it's a wind storm or a Pippin Bun, the miller-man, snoring. Why?"

"I was just thinking," said the apple-tree fairy, "that up on the seventeenth floor of the sky there is a place called 'The Department of Lost Things.' It's for the wind-storm things."

"Whatever are you talking about?" cried Nick. "What wind-storm things?" "Oh, pigs, and baby-carts, and haystacks, and churns, and automobiles and houses and things like that, that blow away in tornadoes. A tornado is a wind storm," said the apple-tree fairy. "They have to blow somewhere, don't they? So they blow up to the seventeenth floor of the sky and we fairies sort them out. It's quite a village."

"But how could Jack's house be blown up there when nothing else was?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, easily!" said the fairy. "A tornado is just a wind cloud that looks like a kite with a tail. The tail comes along and—whisk! It can blow you right off the map and leave the person you were talking to without so much as pushing an eyelash out of place."

"Well then," said Daddy Gander. "We'll go there at once and look."

"Just leave your magic dust-pan here," said the apple-tree fairy. "I'll run you up in my elevator as quick

Mother was sleeping quietly after her long night vigil when Alice arrived. Both John and I went to the train to meet her and Karl. She seemed very much put out about something, and her only observation was: "Have all the arrangements been made?"

Poor Karl looked worn out. However, he made no complaint. When he arrived at the house, in spite of everything either Karl or I could say, she went directly to her mother's room, and throwing herself down beside the bed, began to weep. She said she had never seen her father once since.

"Of course, this awakened mother, who opened her eyes to hear: 'If my dear daughter had been really home, I would have sent for me in time. You, every one of you, had a chance to bid him goodbye, but you forgot me!'"

"It was nothing to you, Leslie! I was not here to share your selfish grief and you let him die with his eyes resting only on you. I, too, am the daughter of my father, and I will never forgive you for this, never."

"Hush, hush, daughter!" remonstrated mother before she was fairly awake. "None of us knew this end was so near. Of course we have known your father has been seriously ill for a long time, but until yesterday morning I tried to make myself believe he was going to get well. His serious illness, Alice, did not keep you from running away from him and marrying Karl. You yourself forgot him. I suppose he did not ask us to send for you because he wanted you and Karl to enjoy the first little while of your marriage without being called to visit this house of grief and sorrow."

"Alice grew very pale, but Karl, God bless him, came forward and took John's hand in his. 'Father, Hamilton was right, Alice. John, you are the one to take charge of his business.'" visit this house of grief and sorrow."

"But what if he didn't send for me? You sent for Leslie and Jack!"

"Leslie came, my dear, before you ran away to be married, and John came at your father's request, made many times to him by letter and telegram in the last few weeks."

"Did he not ask you to send for Karl and me, as well? Why should he send for John alone. What did my father want of one of his sons-in-law that he did not want of the other?" Alice demanded.

"He wanted me to take charge of the plant and execute his will," came bluntly from John who was standing behind Karl and Alice. "Oh, I know you influenced him, John Prescott!" hysterically cried Alice, wheeling around. "Why should he not want Karl as much as you, and me as much as Leslie?"

"Simply because Karl has never been tied down to business in his life, and he knew you were a marplot."

"He loved Karl perhaps better than he did me. He has known him longer, and I presume Karl is more lovable, but he knew that I from sheer necessity if nothing else, am a better business man. So he has not only made me manager of the steel plant, but has made me executor of his last will and testament."

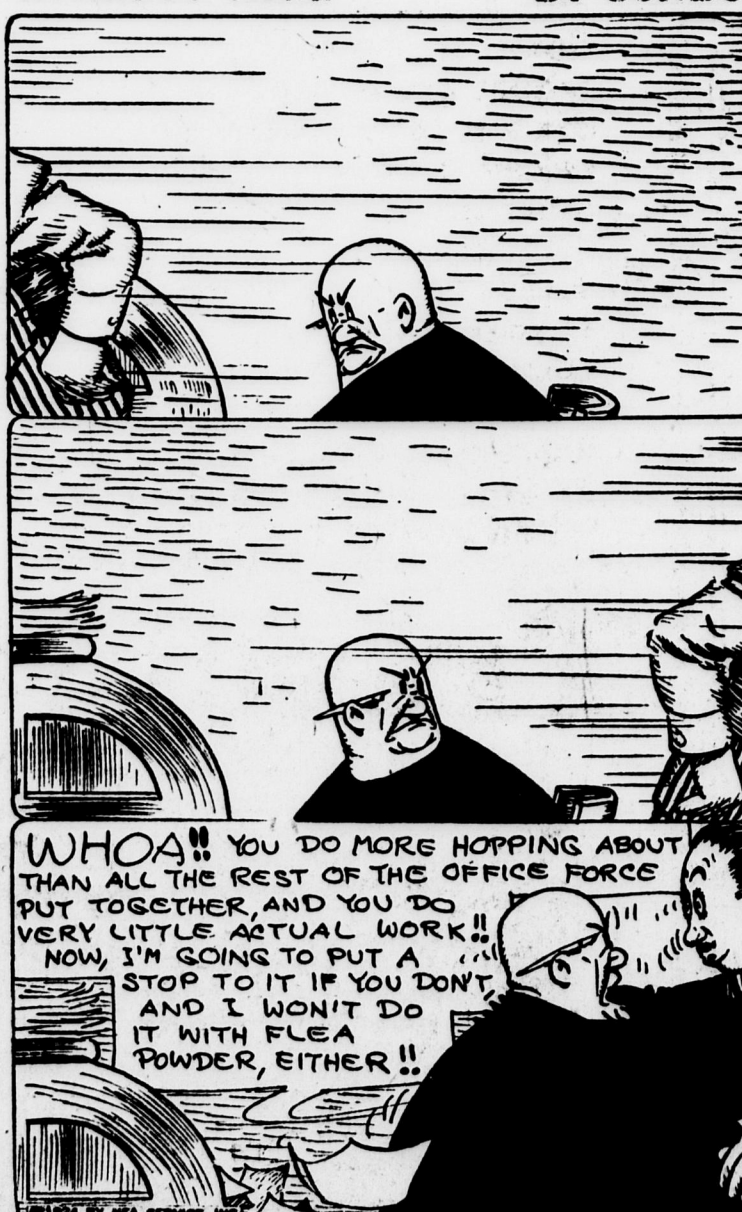

"Alice grew very pale, but Karl, God bless him, came forward and took John's hand in his. 'Father, Hamilton was right, Alice. John, you are the one to take charge of his business.'"

EASY TO QUIT SMOKING?

By Albert Apple

A medical specialist, who serves a lot of mental science along with his pills, tells us that it isn't as hard to desert Lady Nicotine as the average smoker believes.

He cites this case: One of his patients was informed that he was in the early stages of tuberculosis of the lungs. The bad news came unexpectedly, like a bolt out of the blue. The doctor told him that he hadn't a Chinaman's chance unless he quit his cigarettes.

This man was a regular fiend for fags—smoked two and three packages a day. And yet he stopped instantly and without difficulty. It was simply a case that he desired to live more than to smoke. Chronic alcoholism usually is much the same. It's relatively easy to quit if the drinker really wants to. He usually doesn't want to.

The average smoker periodically gets the notion that he is smoking too much. He begins to "taper down."

Presently his body responds and his indigestion or insomnia or whatever his trouble happened to be, responds. He feels so fine that he unconsciously smokes more, and soon is hitting it up as hard as ever.

The only way to quit any habit is to quit it entirely.

In trying to break off the tobacco habit a man rarely has a sufficiently strong motive to make him win the fight. If he has the motive—as in the case of the tuberculosis victim fighting for life—he wins against nicotine with ease.

Fear helps him. Given enough fear, man recognizes no obstacles.

No drunkard, for instance, can quit liquor until he develops a genuine fear of its power over him.

Nearly every one believes that to quit smoking means certain agony. That's the popular notion. It is inherited. Jokes help keep it alive. So do the boasts of self-imagined martyrs relating their agonies when they abandoned cigar, pipe or cigaret, always with exaggeration.

Admittedly, to quit tobacco is no easy job in the case of a confirmed smoker, particularly an old-timer whose system has become accustomed to it. For a man of 65 to quit is apt, in some cases, to be fatal. But the point is that it's not as hard to quit as most men believe.

As to whether there's any use of quitting at all, that's another matter. Doctors disagree.

Obstacles are about three-fourths a matter of our attitude toward them. You recall the famous prizefighter, knocked out by a loafer who didn't know whom he was hitting.

New York, Oct. 23.—When the ZR-3 loomed out of the fog and greeted New York thousands of persons gazed upwards, speechless at the sight.

Some waved their hats or handkerchiefs. Some manifested their emotional reaction in tears. One woman, asked why she cried, said, "Because it has been there so long without touching land."

But the most blaze of all observers was a taxi driver on Seventh avenue. Seeing people peering up into the clouds he poked his head out, took one brief look and turning to his passenger said, "Some fish!" and drove on.

You hear much of London fog, but little of New York's. Yet New York has its own little fog every morning in the fall and spring. It arises with the sun.

Standing atop the 24-story Printing Crafts Building at Eighth avenue and 33rd street the morning the ZR-3 arrived, I was unable to see the first five stories of the Pennsylvania Hotel, just one block away.

James H. Hocking was 69 the other day. He celebrated by walking 69 miles in 14 hours and five minutes. That was 55 minutes less than he took to walk 68 miles on his last birthday.

He started from his home in Yonkers at 3 a. m. and had the benefit of a full moon until dawn. He went through Hastings, Dobbs Ferry, Elmsford, Briarcliff, around Croton Lake to Amawalk, and ate a light lunch at Peekskill, 41 miles away, before noon.

He returned to Getty Square, Yonkers, at 5:05 p. m. He was paced part of the way by Mr. Murphy, principal of Hastings High School, and by Alexander Jessup, former president of the Walkers' Club.

In his youth Hocking was pathfinder for the Walkers' Club of America.

WINDS

Wind of the Northland, buoyant and free, Bringing a breath of that frozen clime. Where the aurora borealis light the skies, With a radiance that is grand and sublime. What do you say as you journey forth? Lord of the Air with the beard of snow, Turning the pond to a glare of ice, Causing destruction wherever you go.

Wind of the Eastland, courageous and strong, Swift as the huntsman's speeding bow, You rush; at the sound of your strident voice, The tall pine shakes and the oak bends low; While you moan and sigh on a stormy night, Like some tortured soul that has been condemned, To the depths of darkness, forever banished, From the frown of foe and the smile of friend.

Wind of the Southland, with perfumed breath, Of spice and myrrh from the Orient, Pictures of caravans fall and rise, Then a shadowy palm and a flapping tent, Where the travelers rest ere they journey on, Tired from the heat of their desert ride, Glad for the respite of the night, And the gleaming stars in the heavens wide.

Wind of the Westland, calm and serene, Like to the night when the day is done, Softly descending from out the sky, Bringing the joy of some task well done; Silently, silently onward you steal, Fanning the brow that is damp with sweat, Cooling the lips that are parched and dry, Striving to make us forgive and forget.

Retiring Officers Entertain For Club Members

The retiring officers of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Mrs. Evelyn Harris, Mrs. Katherine Poole and Miss Henrietta Beach, entertained the members of the club last evening at the club rooms at a Halloween Party. Fortune Telling, and stunts furnished the diversion during the evening, with Miss Bessie Baldwin giving several vocal numbers and Mrs. Florence Davis telling some weird stories. Decorations were carried out in the Halloween colors. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB MEETS

The Wednesday Study club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Birdsell. The study of the present political problems was the topic of the day. In the absence of Mrs. J. J. Steiner, Mrs. W. H. Budenab read her paper on, Presidential Campaign from a Republican Viewpoint. Mrs. S. Johnson gave an interesting paper on, Presidential Campaign from a Democratic Viewpoint and Mrs. C. F. Kellogg gave a paper on Presidential Campaign from a Third Party Viewpoint. Character sketches of the candidates were given with Mrs. W. E. Lahr as leader of the discussion. Mrs. F. E. Shepard gave the topics in brief.

CURRENT EVENT CLUB MEETS

The Current Events Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary McLean. Roll call was answered to by current event topics. Miss Bertha Palmer gave an interesting report on the International Sunday School Convention which was held in Glasgow, Scotland last summer. She also gave a report on The Federation of Women's Clubs meeting which was held recently in Detroit. This was followed by the singing of sacred songs led by Mrs. J. P. French. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET

There will be a regular meeting of the League of Women Voters, next Tuesday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, at the High school, at which time tax commissioner, C. C. Converse, will discuss the initiated tax measure, which will be voted upon at the election, November 4. A short musical program will be given at this time. All men and women who are interested in the work of the organization are urged to be present.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS MEETING

The Eastern Star held their regular meeting Tuesday evening which was followed by a social hour. A musical program was enjoyed, with Miss Rhoda and Ruth Clausen, responding with violin and piano numbers. Henry Halverson gave several vocal selections. There were out of town visitors from Washburn, Steele and Underwood. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

TO ORGANIZE WESTMINSTER GUILD

The young women of the Presbyterian church are organizing a Westminster Guild and there will be a meeting this evening, at the manse, 16 Ave. B. All young men and women over eighteen years are urged to be present. There will be a musical program and other entertainment.

ENTERTAINS AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Miss Marion Strutz entertained for a few of her friends at a Halloween Party last evening at her home. Games and stunts, with fortune telling, was the diversion of the evening. A delightful lunch was served at the close of the evening.

ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. A. K. Tice entertained yesterday afternoon at a bridge party. Three tables were at play with honors being won by Mrs. G. H. Doller and Mrs. J. D. Healow. Refreshments were served at the close of the games.

Auxiliary of Legion Gives Fine Program

A delightful program was given last night by the American Legion Auxiliary at a joint meeting with Lloyd Spetz Post, American Legion, which followed the separate business meetings of each organization. The program arranged by the auxiliary included vocal solos by Mrs. John Larson, with Mrs. Genevieve Menard Hughes as accompanist; violin selections by Mrs. McKinnon; a reading, "Witches Leaves," by Miss Floy Kitchen; vocal solos by Mrs. Regan, and dance numbers by Miss Bernice Joslin and Miss Betty Lofthouse, with Edna Dean Best at the piano. Following the program, lunch was served. It was announced that the annual dinner for Legion men would be given on Armistice Day. Many joint social meetings were held last winter by the Legion and Auxiliary, which were so successful that it is planned to continue them this year. There was a drawing of the lucky number which won a hand bag made by a disabled ex-service man in a Minneapolis hospital. The bag was won by Phil Webb and $23.50 was netted for the disabled man. The War Mothers and the Legion Auxiliary decided last evening that the annual Armistice dinner will be given on November 11 unless further plans are developed. It is requested that all who did not register last evening, register at Harris-Woodman, so that the ladies will know how many to prepare for. Members from the county American Legion and Legion Auxiliary are all invited to be present.

DELPHIANS TO HOLD MEETING

The second meeting of the Delphian society will be held tomorrow morning, October 24, at the Business and Professional Women's Club rooms, at 9:30. The following program will be given: Mrs. C. B. ## Bismarck Students Prominent at "U" In Activities

Many Bismarck young people are taking part in the activities of the various clubs and organizations at the University at Grand Forks. Bismarck notes at the University follow:

Miss Clara Hultberg, who was recently elected to membership in A. D. T. literary society, gave a talk on North Dakota parks at the program given by the society, on Wednesday, Oct. 22.

Miss Gwendolyn Welch supervised the arrangements for the float, "The Fledglings of Alpha Phi," which won the prize for being the most unique entered in the Homecoming Day parade. The float was represented as a nest, devised of autumn foliage, and contained several of the pledges of Alpha Phi.

Robert Birdsell was recently initiated into active membership in Beta Theta Pi, social fraternity. Active, alumni, and pledge members of Sigma Chi fraternity enjoyed a banquet Saturday, during the Homecoming ceremonies. Paul Goddard, Charles Gobel, and William Ankermann are active members of Sigma Chi. "Dutch" Houser, assistant coach, is making his home at the Sigma Chi house this year.

Mike Geston visited at the Beta Theta Pi house during Homecoming, and then went to Grafton, where he will spend the remainder of his vacation with friends and relatives.

Miss Dorothy Birdsell was a guest of Miss Marion Staley while attending the Northern Intercollegiate association meet at the University of North Dakota, as a high school editor. Everett O'Neill, the other Bismarck representative, was a guest at the Kappa Psi Beta house during his stay at the University.

Miss Helen Crawford is a member of the Honor class in Freshman English at the University of North Dakota. Freshmen having high standings in English throughout their college course, are given a special examination upon entering the University. Those who pass with a high grade, are enrolled in the honor division. Miss Crawford is one of the student assistants at the University library.

Miss Elizabeth Wetmore is a student assistant in the School of Commerce, doing part time stenographic work there.

Miss Clara Sperry, representing the freshmen, responded to a toast at the party "The Rose Garden" given recently by the Y. W. C. A. as a welcome to new girls on the University of North Dakota campus. Her talk was on "The Bud." Other toasts were "the half blown rose," "the rose," and "the gardener."

The real whole wheat cracker—not made of coarse, uncooked flour, but made of the whole wheat grain, cooked in steam, drawn into filmy shreds and baked in electric ovens. It is more easily digested than ordinary crackers. The crisp, tasty shreds of flavory, baked whole wheat encourages thorough chewing, and that means healthy gums, sound teeth and good digestion. Delicious with butter or soft cheese. Tastes better when toasted in the oven.

Retiring Officers Entertain For Club Members

The retiring officers of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Mrs. Evelyn Harris, Mrs. Katherine Poole and Miss Henrietta Beach, entertained the members of the club last evening at the club rooms at a Halloween Party. Fortune Telling, and stunts furnished the diversion during the evening, with Miss Bessie Baldwin giving several vocal numbers and Mrs. Florence Davis telling some weird stories. Decorations were carried out in the hallways, and refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB MEETS

The Wednesday Study club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. E. Birdzell. The study of the present political problems was the topic of the day. In the absence of Mrs. J. J. Steiner, Mrs. W. H. Bodenshtadt read her paper on, Presidential Campaign from a Republican Viewpoint. Mrs. S. Johnson gave an interesting paper on, Presidential Campaign from a Democratic Viewpoint and Mrs. C. F. Kellogg gave a paper on Presidential Campaign from a Third Party Viewpoint. Character sketches of the candidates were given with Mrs. W. E. Lahr as leader of the discussion. Mrs. F. E. Shepard gave the topics in brief.

CURRENT EVENT CLUB MEETS

The Current Events Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary McLean. Roll call was answered to by current event topics. Miss Bertha Palmer gave an interesting report on the International Sunday School Convention which was held in Glasgow, Scotland last summer. She also gave a report on The Federation of Women's Clubs meeting which was held recently in Minot. This was followed by the singing of sacred songs led by Mrs. J. P. French. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET

There will be a regular meeting of the League of Women Voters, next Tuesday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, at the High school, at which time tax commissioner, C. C. Converse, will discuss the initiated tax measure, which will be voted upon at the election, November 4. A short musical program will be given at this time. All men and women who are interested in the work of the organization are urged to be present.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS MEETING

The Eastern Star held their regular meeting Tuesday evening which was followed by a social hour. A musical program was enjoyed, with Miss Rhoda and Ruth Clausen responding with violin and piano numbers. Henry Halverson gave several vocal selections. There were out of town visitors from Washburn, Steele and Underwood. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

TO ORGANIZE WESTMINSTER GUILD

The young women of the Presbyterian church are organizing a Westminster Guild and there will be a meeting this evening, at the manse, 16 Ave. B. All young men and women over eighteen years are urged to be present. There will be a musical program and other entertainment.

ENTERTAINS AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Miss Marion Strutz entertained for a few of her friends at a Halloween Party last evening at her home. Games and stunts, with fortune telling, was the diversion of the evening. A delightful lunch was served at the close of the evening.

ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE

Mrs. A. K. Tice entertained yesterday afternoon at a bridge party. Three tables were at play with honors being won by Mrs. G. H. Dollar and Mrs. J. D. Healow. Refreshments were served at the close of the games.

L. A. P. M. TO MEET

There will be a regular meeting of the L. A. P. M., tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present as there is to be important business discussed.

By order of President.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES TO HOLD FOOD SALE

The first division of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid will hold a food sale at the Bismarck Food Market, Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2:30.

Auxiliary of Legion Gives Fine Program

A delightful program was given last night by the American Legion Auxiliary at a joint meeting with Lloyd Spetz Post, American Legion, which followed the separate business meetings of each organization. The program arranged by the auxiliary included vocal solos by Mrs. John Larson, with Mrs. Genevieve Menard Hughes as accompanist; violin selections by Mrs. McKinnon; a reading, "Witches Leaves," by Miss Floy Kitchen; vocal solos by Mrs. Regan, and dance numbers by Miss Bernice Joslin and Miss Betty Lofthouse, with Edna Dean Best at the piano. Following the program lunch was served. It was announced that the annual dinner for Legion men would be given on Armistice Day. Many joint social meetings were held last winter by the Legion and Auxiliary, which were so successful that it is planned to continue them this year. There was a drawing of the lucky number which won a hand bag made by a disabled ex-service man in a Minneapolis hospital. The bag was won by Phil Woods and $28.50 was netted for the disabled man. The War Mothers and the Legion Auxiliary decided last evening that the annual Armistice dinner will be given on November 11 unless further plans are developed. It is requested that all who did not register last evening, register at Harris-Woodman, so that the ladies will know how many to prepare for. Members from the county American Legion and Legion Auxiliary are all invited to be present.

DELPHIANS TO HOLD MEETING

The second meeting of the Delphi society will be held tomorrow morning, October 24, at the Business and Professional Women's Club rooms, at 9:30. The following program will be given: Mrs. C. B. Nupen, leader. Tertullians "De Spectaculis"—Mrs. E. L. Whitson. The Mystery Play in the Church—Mrs. Chiffon Johnson. The Secularization of the Mystery—Mrs. H. F. Keller. The Corpus Christi Pageants—Mrs. F. A. Lahr. The Three Macies—Mrs. C. B. Whittey. The Drama as Teacher—Mrs. Geo. Register.

Dramatic Reading

Leader—Mrs. Overt Olson—Hegio. Philocutus—Mrs. Celia Rosen. Tyndarus—Mrs. A. K. Tice. Erastus—Mrs. S. W. Corwin. Aristophanes—Mrs. Harvey Harris.

L. T. L. HOLD MEETING

The L. T. L. held their meeting yesterday afternoon, at which the new officers were installed. There was a large attendance, thirty being present. Additional officers were elected and are as follows: corresponding secretary, Marford Johnson; collector, Ralph Goddard; evangelistic superintendent, Margaret Johnson; superintendent of sunshine envelopes, Dorothy Kennedy; cheer leader, Herbert Newcomb. There will be a Halloween party next Wednesday, October 29.

ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

Miss Lois Hartman and Miss Mildred Eger entertained last evening in their apartment in the Tribune building. Three tables of bridge were at play during the evening. Honors were won by Mrs. Andrew Erdahl. The decorations were carried out in the Halloween colors. Refreshments were served at the close of the games.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

THAT THIRD PARTY
Charles E. Hughes, secretary of state, has given an especially strong characterization of the third party which is promoting the candidacy of Senator R. M. LaFollette. It is best told by direct quotation:

"The Third Party seems to live on suspicion and calumny. It attacks every one and everything but itself. It would have you believe that everything is rotten in business, in finance, in diplomacy. You would think that this is the unhappiest country on earth, whereas it is the one country envied by all; the country of highest wages, of the best living conditions, of the greatest opportunities, where even the poor in every-day life have comforts and conveniences which most of the well-to-do in other countries do not enjoy. It is difficult to thwart economic forces by political action, but there is a short political road to economic distress. You cannot have progress without the security and expansion of enterprise. The extreme radicals have never been able to understand why they could not have the golden eggs after the goose was killed. The dictatorship of the proletariat is the effort to distribute eggs that are no more. It would not take much to destroy our prosperity. All you have to do is to shatter confidence. This would happen if the Third Party should really approach success. This would measurably result if the Third Party could produce a dead-lock in this election. I said the other day that Senator LaFollette was aiming to keep enough electoral votes away from Coolidge to prevent him from having a majority and then to put in Bryan as Vice President, who would become President because of a dead-lock in the House of Representatives. No, indeed! shout the supporters of Senator LaFollette. We will not make Bryan Vice President, they say, but Wheeler. Well, if anything could be worse than to put in Bryan, it would be to put in Wheeler."

WHAT A GERMAN THINKS
No one interested in the restoration of Europe should vote for LaFollette and Wheeler as against Coolidge and Dawes. The operation of the Dawes plan should be of interest to the German people of America who, while they have severed all political ties with the land of their birth, still follow with interest, developments in the restoration of a stable government which as time continues will increase Germany's trade with this nation. This is what Chancellor Marx has to say about the operation of the Dawes plan, a concrete scheme to aid in the restoration of Germany:

"Both the German people and the German Government are keenly interested in a successful conclusion of the negotiations now under way in London. The German people sincerely desire it and are prepared to do everything in their power to accomplish enforcement of the Dawes plan, particularly as the results of the London Conference have yielded a sounder and more healthy basis for resumption of normal relations between Germany and her former enemies than any previously suggested solution of the reparations problem. The German people see in the loan a means of stabilizing Germany's finances, while its failure on the other hand would have a far-reaching detrimental effect on the entire situation and might even mean the collapse of the Dawes plan."

FORD ON LAFOLLETTE
No one can accuse Ford of being particularly friendly to Wall Street. He has been regarded as rather "progressive" in his political ideas, to use an overworked political term which means nothing, but has become almost the sole asset of the LaFollette group. Some politicians get the name progressive attached to them and it proves enough for some people who don't investigate to ascertain whether the label means anything or not.

Mr. Ford does not see anything especially progressive about LaFollette. In a recent interview he said:

"LaFollette and other members who fought Muscle Shoals played Wall Street's game knowingly or unknowingly. Wall Street wants it for exploitation. It does not want the people to know the actual cost of power. That would bust the power trust."

And again:

"The trouble with him (LaFollette) is that he fails to distinguish between big business and the money interests." Ford's support of Calvin Coolidge is based upon the fact that he sees in Coolidge a safe American to guide the destinies of the Republic through the present crisis. He gives his reasons why he is for Coolidge in the following:

"I haven't changed a particle in my views on Calvin Coolidge. I do not know Mr. Davis, but I do know that President Coolidge comes from a kind of Puritan stock that can do its own thinking. He knows the undercurrents of our national life and he has an invaluable gift for knowing when to say 'no.'"

HERCULES
In love matches you observe the workings of nature's tendency to even things up—restore the balance before specimens of her handiwork get too far from normal. Beauty marries the Beast. Black Eyes weds Blue Eyes. Intellectual mates with Creampuff Brain. Mysterious? Not at all. Just nature restoring the balance.

An exception comes to light in England. Saxson Brown, billed as the world's strongest boy, 19, marries Britain's strongest girl, 16.

The older a man gets the more young people there are.

GOING SOUTH

(Rochester Herald)
Great flocks of birds rising in regular formation from fields, or stubble, or settling on the cat-tails of a marsh, remind the farmers and vacationists that the North will soon be no place for delicate constitutions. The sparrows, the crows and a few gulls may continue to hunt their meals about the countryside, but most of the other birds soon will be on their way toward more generous latitudes. The annual rush of travel Southward is beginning in birdland.

It is one of the constant and abiding mysteries of nature that the majority of wild birds migrate seasonally, with almost the regularity of the earth's revolutions. There are variations, to be sure, but they are the more mystifying, for they appear to give evidence of a fore-knowledge of the weather. When the wing comes early, so do the migrant feathered hosts. When winter nips at the heels of August, the summer nesting places are abandoned weeks earlier than usual, and the flocks move Southward rapidly, even though the days may still be warm. Usually, the migration is propitious of weather changes, for when the birds take wing early at the close of summer, the breath of winter is felt soon afterward in these Northern lake plains.

Just why the birds should go South when there is no lack of food to be had in the Northern fields is a puzzle to those naturalists who believe migration is a question of food supply. In the tropics there is food aplenty. Having reached Central America or Brazil, therefore, why should the Northern birds ever return to the cold climates from which they flee every autumn? cannot be found along that drives them irresistibly Northward in the spring and Southward in the fall, for they leave a land of plenty in the South in the spring, and a Northern land still overflowing with bird food in the fall.

Possibly the future may reveal many of the secrets of nature, but until mankind is able to read the minds of bird-folk, it is not likely that science will be able wholly to explain the great mystery of migration.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE APPLE-TREE FAIRY

"Yes," said Daddy Gander to the Twins as they rode along through the sky on his magic dust-pan, "the tin rooster was right. There isn't any doubt that the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered-Man have gone to housekeeping in the House-That-Jack-Built."

"Oh, look!" cried Nancy. "There is someone beckoning to us from that apple tree. Let's stop and see who it is."

So Daddy Gander said, "Whoa!" to his dust-pan and it stopped in the tip-topmost branch of the apple tree. "Why, hello!" said Nick. "It's the apple-tree fairy who runs the elevator up to the sky."

"I'm glad you haven't forgotten me," said the apple-tree fairy. "I thought I heard someone talking about the House-That-Jack-Built. Was it you?"

"It was me," said Daddy Gander. "Do you know anything about it?"

"Do I?" Well, I should say so," remarked the apple-tree fairy. "I used to live in an apple tree on Pippin Hill where Jack and Jill and Mrs. John live. Indeed, I was there when Jack built his house. I know all about it. It's got the cutest porch and—"

"Oh, I mean do you know where it's gone?" asked Daddy Gander. "It's lost."

"Ants, wings and snails, horns!" cried the little fairy in surprise. "You don't say so!"

"Oh, yes," said Nancy. "It's gone and we're hunting for it. The tin rooster on the barn and Higgledy, Piggledy, the black hen, said that they thought the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered-Man had gone to housekeeping in it."

"I don't believe it," said the apple-tree fairy. "They wouldn't do such a thing. Wait a minute! I've an idea. Was there a wind-storm there about when the house disappeared?"

"Not that I know of," said Daddy Gander. "But then it's pretty hard to tell sometimes. We never can be sure in Mother Goose Land whether it's a wind-storm or Poppington Run, the miller-man, snoring. Why?"

"I was just thinking," said the apple-tree fairy, "that up on the seventeenth floor of the sky there is a place called 'The Department of Lost Things.' It's for the wind-storm things."

"Whatever are you talking about?" cried Nick. "What wind-storm things?"

"Oh, pigs, and baby-carts, and hay-stacks, and churns, and automobiles, and houses, and things like that, that blow away in tornadoes. A tornado is a wind-storm," said the apple-tree fairy. "They have to blow somewhere, don't they? So they blow up to the seventeenth floor of the sky and we fairies sort them out. It's quite a village."

"But how could Jack's house be blown up there when nothing else was?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, easily!" said the fairy. "A tornado is just a wind cloud that looks like a kite with a tail. The tail comes along and—whisk! It can blow you right off the map and leave the person you were talking to without so much as pushing an eyelash out of place."

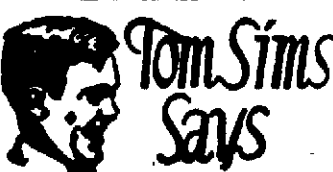

"Well then," said Daddy Gander. "We'll go there at once and look."

"Just leave your magic dust-pan here," said the apple-tree fairy. "I'll run you up in my elevator as quick

The Tangle

Mother was sleeping quietly after her long night vigil when Alice arrived. Both John and I went to the train to meet her and Karl. She seemed very much put out about something, and her only observation was: "Have all the arrangements been made?"

Poor Karl looked worn out. However, he made no complaint. When she arrived at the house, in spite of everything either Karl or I could say, she went directly to her mother's room, and throwing herself down beside the bed, began to reproach us all for not bringing her home in time to see her father once again.

Of course, this awakened mother, who opened her eyes to hear: "If my dear had had been really himself, he would have sent for me in time. You, every one of you, had a chance to bid him goodbye, but you forgot me!" she wailed.

"It was nothing to you, Leslie!" that I was not here to share your selfish grief and let him die with his eyes resting only on you. I, too, am the daughter of my father, and I will never forgive you for this, never."

"Hush, hush, daughter!" remonstrated mother before she was fully awake. "None of us knew the old was so near. Of course we have known your father has been seriously ill for a long time, but until yesterday morning I tried to make myself believe he was going to get well. His chronic illness, Alice, did not keep you from running away from him and marrying Karl. You yourself forced him, I suppose he did not ask us to send for you because he wanted you and Karl to enjoy the first little while of your marriage without being called to visit this house of grief and sorrow."

"But what if he didn't send for me? You sent for Leslie and Jack!" wailed Alice.

"Leslie came, my dear, before you ran away to be married, and John came at your father's request, made many times to him by letter and telegram in the last few weeks."

"Did he not ask you to send for Karl and me, as well? Why should he send for John alone. What did my father want of one of his sons-in-law that he did not want of the other?" Alice demanded.

"He wanted me to take charge of the plant and execute his will!" came bluntly from John who was standing behind Karl and Alice.

"Oh, I know you influenced him, John Prescott!" hysterically cried Alice, wheeling around. "Why should he not want Karl as much as you, and me as much as Leslie?"

"Simply because Karl has never been tied down to business in his life, and he knew you were a martyr."

"He loved Karl perhaps better than he did me. He has known him longer, and I presume Karl is more lovable, but he knew that I from sheer necessity if nothing else, am a better business man. So he has not only made me manager of the steel plant, but has made me executor of his last will and testament."

Alice grew very pale, but Karl, God bless him, came forward and took John's hand in his.

"Father Hamilton was right, Alice. John, you are the one to take charge of his business."

EASY TO QUIT SMOKING?

By Albert Apple

A medical specialist, who serves a lot of mental science along with his pills, tells us that it isn't a tenth as hard to desert Lady Nicotine as the average smoker believes.

He cites this case: One of his patients was informed that he was in the early stages of tuberculosis of the lungs. The bad news came unexpectedly, like a bolt out of the blue. The doctor told him that he hadn't a Chinaman's chance unless he quit his cigarettes.

This man was a regular fiend for fags—smoked two and three packages a day. And yet he stopped instantly and without difficulty. It was simply a case that he desired to live more than to smoke. Chronic alcoholism usually is much the same. It's relatively easy to quit if the drinker really wants to. He usually doesn't want to.

The average smoker periodically gets the notion that he is smoking too much. He begins to "taper down." Presently his body responds and his indigestion or insomnia or whatever his trouble happened to be, responds. He feels so fine that he unconsciously smokes more, and soon is hitting it up as hard as ever.

The only way to quit any habit is to quit it entirely.

In trying to break off the tobacco habit a man rarely has a sufficiently strong motive to make him win the fight. If he has the motive—as in the case of the tuberculosis victim fighting for life—he wins against nicotine with ease.

Fear helps him. Given enough fear, man recognizes no obstacles.

No drunkard, for instance, can quit liquor until he develops a genuine fear of its power over him.

Nearly every one believes that to quit smoking means certain agony. That's the popular notion. It is inherited. Jokes help keep it alive. So do the boasts of self-imagined martyrs relating their agonies when they abandoned cigar, pipe or cigarette, always with exaggeration.

Admittedly, to quit tobacco is no easy job in the case of a confirmed smoker, particularly an old-timer whose system has become accustomed to it. For a man of 65 to quit is apt, in some cases, to be fatal. But the point is that it's not as hard to quit as most men believe.

As to whether there's any use of quitting at all, that's another matter. Doctors disagree.

Obstacles are about three-fourths a matter of our attitude toward them. You recall the famous prizefighter, knocked out by a loafer who didn't know whom he was hitting.

New York, Oct. 23.—When the 2R-3 loomed out of the fog and greeted New York thousands of persons gazed upwards, speechless at the sight.

Some waved their hats or handkerchiefs. Some manifested their emotional reaction in tears. One woman, asked why she cried, said, "Because it has been up there so long without touching land."

But the most blaze of all observers was a taxi driver on Seventh avenue. Seeing people peering up into the clouds he poked his head out, took one brief look and turning to his passenger said, "Some fish!" and drove on.

You hear much of London fog, but little of New York's. Yet New York has its own little fog every morning in the fall and spring. It arises with the sun.

Standing atop the 24-story Printing Crafts Building at Eighth avenue and 33rd street the morning the 2R-3 arrived, I was unable to see the first five stories of the Pennsylvania Hotel, just one block away.

James H. Hocking was 69 the other day. He celebrated by walking 69 miles in 14 hours and five minutes. That was 55 minutes less than he took to walk 68 miles on his last birthday.

He started from his home in Yonkers at 3 a. m. and had the benefit of a full moon until dawn. He went through Hastings, Dobbs Ferry, Elmsford, Briarcliff, around Croton Lake to Amherst, and ate a light lunch at Peekskill, 41 miles away, before noon.

He returned to Gotty Square, Yonkers, at 5:05 p. m. He was paced part of the way by Mr. Murphy, principal of Hastings High School, and by Alexander Jessup, former president of the Walkers' Club.

In his youth Hocking was pathfinder for the Walkers' Club of America.

WINDS

Wind of the Northland, buoyant and free, Bringing a breath of that frozen clime. Where the aurora borealis light the skies. With a radiance that is grand, sublime; What do you say as you journey forth? Lord of the Air with the beard of snow, Turning the pond to a glare of ice, Causing destruction wherever you go.

Wind of the Eastland, courageous and strong, Swift as the huntsman's speeding bow, You rush; at the sound of your strident voice, The tall pine shakes and the oak bends low; While you moan and sigh on a stormy night, Like some tortured soul that has been condemned. To the depths of darkness, forever banned, From the frown of foe and the smile of friend.

Wind of the Southland, with perfumed breath, Of spice and myrrh from the Orient, Pictures of caravans fall and rise, Then a shadowy palm and a flapping tent, Where the travelers rest ere they journey on, Tired from the heat of their desert ride, Glad for the respite of the night, And the gleaming stars in the heavens wide.

Wind of the Westland, calm and serene, Like to the night when the day is done, Softly descending from out the sky, Bringing the joy of some task well done; Silently, silently onward you steal, Fanning the brow that is damp with sweat, Cooling the lips that are parched and dry, Striving to make us forgive and forget.

L'ENVOY
Pure as the touch of an angel's kiss, On a baby's lips imprint; Calm as the notes of the vesper hymn, Are the sepia from the West.

BISMARCK MAN TELLS OF BIG GRID CONTEST

"Red" Grange's Performance in Illinois-Michigan Game Is Described

"Red" Grange, University of Illinois star half-back, is all that he is reputed to be. Dr. M. W. Roan, an enthusiastic football fan, declared today upon his return from Chicago and Urbana, on which trip he found time to witness the Illinois-Michigan game last Saturday. Michigan kicked off purposely to Grange, intent on stopping him early. Dr. Roan said, but the red-haired Illinois back ran over 30 yards for a touchdown. He made three more touchdowns in the first quarter.

"On Grange's first run only one man got near enough to touch him," said Dr. Roan. "When he made his third touchdown he walked across the goal line. Grange is strong and fast and has a remarkable change of pace, which enables him to dodge tacklers. He went around the ends or through the line on off-tackle plays—he seemed to be able to go through anything."

The dedication of the new stadium was impressive, Dr. Roan said. The University of Illinois stadium is a memorial. It was crowded with 68,000 people. It cost $1,700,000 and is not finished. Dr. Roan said Michigan brought a big band and the University of Illinois band of 172 pieces paraded. The two bands joined to play the "Star Spangled Banner" while 68,000 people sang it. A bugler sounded taps at the flagpole as a part of the dedication ceremonies.

MICHIGAN TO MEET BADGERS

Expected to Furnish Much Dope in Western Football

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Three games will occupy the spotlight on the Big Ten football schedule Saturday. Michigan, defeated by Illinois, will meet Wisconsin, and the game is expected to furnish a comparison of strength between Michigan and Minnesota. Chicago will meet Ohio State. Illinois should have an easy time Saturday, meeting DePaul University. Northwestern will take on a tough foe in the Michigan Aggies. Nebraska meets Kansas, Missouri will play the Kansas Aggies, Washburn meets Butler, and North Dakota meets Nebraska Wednesday.

The feature clash of eastern football will be the meeting of Notre Dame, conqueror of the Army, and Princeton, victorious over the Navy. The Rockne eleven won last year, 25 to 2.

Other big eastern games will include the Harvard-Dartmouth contest, the Yale-Brown game, Penn State vs. Syracuse.

ALFONSO HEADS FRESHMAN TEAM

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 23.—With Ed Alfonso of Bismarck acting as captain of the freshman football team, the Freshmen eleven, Monday, played a hard fought game with the sophomores, the latter winning 7 to 0.

The first year men had the upper and in all but the second quarter, when a series of penalties and several successful plays brought the sophomores within one yard of victory, and on the second play scored a touchdown. Goal was kicked successfully, giving the sophomores 7 to 0 the freshmen 6.

Edward Scott and Earl Benser, both Bismarck men, were members of the freshman team. Scott playing end, Benser center. Alfonso played fullback. All three men are starting in the first year team, being among the outstanding figures appearing on football this fall. Albert Rabe of Dickinson is also making a good showing, and is expected to prove good material for first year team next year.

FOUR DODGERS ARE ACCUSED

Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 23.—Edward Brown, Milton Stock, J. Mitchell and Berney Neis, members of the Brooklyn National league baseball team, which played here Sunday, were arrested at the Elman hotel, charged with attacking William Weaver, 10 year old boy. Weaver is in a hospital with a broken jaw and two teeth knocked out.

The players were released in police court on $400 bail on two separate charges, one of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and the other three degrees assault. They are charged with wrecking the hotel office when they were ordered out and attacking Weaver because he refused to unlock a room in the hotel.

DALLAS TO PLAY GOLF AND TENNIS ON SKYSCRAPER ROOF

By NEA Service

Dallas, Oct. 23.—Ever play tennis? When your lady partner whallops the ball over the backstop, how would you like to go after it, if you had to cross two bridges and a row of trees, wait for an elevator, descend 10 stories, and cross two congested downtown streets to get it?

Yet that's the fix in which some young University Club gallant of Dallas is going to find himself when his new clubhouse, with its tennis and hand-ball courts and its putting green, is opened!

The clubhouse is being built on and here there was doubt if he had authority to punish members of the Brooklyn National league club arrested at Wenatchee, Wash., for an attack on a 16 year old boy.

NEW LEIPZIG SCHOOL BOASTS FOOTBALL TEAM

New Leipzig, N. D., Oct. 23.—Supt. M. A. Tovey of the New Leipzig schools is coaching probably the smallest small town football team of the Missouri Slope. The young huskies on the New Leipzig team don't worry about condition or two games in a row as witness the performance last week when on October 17 they took on New Salem, winning by a score of 32 to 0, and the following day, October 18, trounced the Elgin eleven by a score of 25 to 0.

On October 20, two days later, they met the Flasher high school team and defeated the southern Morton county crew by a score of 13 to 0. The latter game was erroneously reported as a victory for Flasher.

GOLF LORDS SPURN NEW U. S. SPHERE

By NEA Service
Boston, Oct. 23.—The U. S. G. A. officials, a r.e. embarrassed. Two years ago officials of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, supreme court of golf, complained that the golf ball in use in America was too lively, and suggested a curtailment.

A get-together pow-wow was held with golf authorities from both sides of the Atlantic attending and it was tacitly decided that a lighter and larger golf ball should be adopted as the universal playing sphere. A committee of Americans was appointed to consult with manufacturers and develop a ball with reduced flying power.

Meanwhile the great mass of players in this country the duffers were puzzled. They found the far-flying ball much to their liking. What did they care if the Hagens and the Oumets were able to make courses look easy with the lively ball, they were still struggling to get under 100.

Well, in due time the American committee finally decided on a ball to their liking. Five or six of them played with it and were satisfied.

HARVARD BACKFIELD STAR

Coach Bob Fisher Banks on Speedy McGlone Against Yale and Princeton

J. M. MCGLONE

In figuring on his backfield Coach Bob Fisher of Harvard is banking strongly on McGlone, who is capable of playing quarterback or filling in at half.

So far McGlone's play has been rather disappointing. He's highly touted, injuries kept him in the background last season. This year Coach Fisher is hopeful he will come through.

McGlone is fast, a hard man to bring down in the open field and seems destined to make trouble for both Yale and Princeton this year.

the roof of a warehouse and office building which stretches back across three streets, at a height of 10 stories!

The clubhouse "grounds," with real grass and trees and flowers and fountains and tennis courts, will be located high above the heads of clerks and bookkeepers and stenographers in surrounding skyscrapers.

Imagine a golfer riding an elevator to a green right in the middle of the banking and hotel district of a city of 250,000!

A report of their findings was cabled to the august lords across the sea. And then came an acute shock. The ball was too light. Yes, really, the Scots and the Britons could never play with it. Another pattern, they advised, heavier but not too active, must be produced.

That low rumbling puffaw you hear in the distance, we suspect, comes from some vulgar duffer.

Billy Evans Says

The second game of the world series raised a point in scoring that has already caused a lot of discussion.

Washington won the game 4 to 3. Marberry as relief pitcher was first credited with the victory. Later it was given to the original starter, Zachary.

It will be recalled that Zachary pitched brilliantly in the second game until the final inning.

Going into the ninth inning with a 3 to 1 lead, the Giants tied up the score. With two out and a runner on second, Marberry was sent in to finish the game.

Marberry proceeded to strike Jackson out on three pitched balls. Washington put over the winning run in the last half of the ninth.

As the crowd filed out of the park the general impression was that Marberry had won the game. The official scorers of the series were of that opinion. Some of the experts in their stories played up the fact that Marberry won a ball game on three pitches.

The day following the game the scorers decided that the ruling was rather unjust to Zachary and switched back to him.

Under that ruling Zachary was credited with a game in which he had lost his identity by being reported in favor of Marberry.

Since the close of the series I have received scores of inquiries relative to the final decision in awarding the victory to Zachary, a player no longer in the line-up.

Fair play must be the basis for everything that is right in sport. Fair play to Zachary caused the scorers to reverse their original ruling in favor of Marberry.

When Marberry entered the game with two out and a runner on second, Zachary technically stood to lose the game but had no chance to win it.

If a New York batter had hit safely, ly, scoring the runner on second after Marberry had entered the game, Zachary would have been charged with the defeat, since he put the winning run on that base.

Thus Zachary technically never had a chance to win the game after being relieved by Marberry, but could have been charged with defeat had the runner on second when he retired from the game scored the winning run.

In a sense such a situation is manifestly unfair. After pitching eight and two-thirds innings, if the scoring rule was strictly followed, Zachary had no change for a victory, no opportunity to be rewarded for his fine pitching.

While Marberry in fanning the latter for the third out of the ninth inning and final one as far as the Giants were concerned, did a fine bit of pinch-pitching, it was not as deserving of the award of victory as the brilliant work of Zachary that had gone before.

The decision was a just and proper one but killed many a lead story how Marberry on three pitched balls won a world series game. Incidentally it puzzled fans how a pitcher could receive credit for a game after having passed from the line-up.

MILTON SETS A NEW RECORD

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 23.—Tommy Milton, of Los Angeles, led yesterday tied the world's record for a single lap on an automobile speedway by spinning around Charlotte's new wooden bowl at 125.7 miles an hour.

This record was established by Ernie Ansterberg on the Altoon, Pa. speedway on August 26 last. Ansterberg was killed in a tryout spin on the Charlotte speedway last Thursday.

Milton tied the record today while practicing for the 250 mile inaugural race at the new mile and a quarter speedway here next Saturday.

DOPING 1925 PENNANT RACE
Some of the critics are already unkind enough to say they don't think the world champion Washington club will finish in the first division of the American League next year. The same critics are a unit in the belief that the Giants wouldn't do any better in the National League next season.

Deadlocks in Elections of 1800, 1824 and 1876

BY HARRY BY HUNT
NEA Service Writer

Washington, Oct. 23.—Just to get our history straight in advance of developments following Nov. 4, should election day prove really the beginning instead of the end of the presidential contest, a glimpse into the situations developing at former deadlocked elections may be worth while.

To date there have been three presidential decisions thrown into Congress; in 1800, 1824 and 1876.

The first of these in 1800, was before the enactment of the twelfth amendment to the constitution, which now governs the procedure of balloting for president. At that time the electors did not ballot separately for president and vice president, the man getting the greatest number of electoral votes being declared winner for president, the runner up, with the second highest vote, being named vice president.

In the 1800 campaign, Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr were the candidates of the original "Republican" party, John Adams and Charles C. Pinckney of the "Federalist" party. There were no conventions and no party platforms, their nominations having been made by congressional caucuses.

This election fell on the same date as the election this year—Nov. 4. When the electors got together, however, Jefferson and Burr received the same number of votes, 73 each, against 65 cast for Adams, and 64 for Pinckney.

There being no choice, the election was thrown into Congress, where after a week of balloting Jefferson finally won; Alexander Hamilton, a Federalist leader, finally throwing his influence behind the author of the Declaration of Independence.

Following this situation, the twelfth amendment was adopted, in 1803, in the expectation that it would solve similar situations in the future.

It provided for the specific designation of candidates for president and vice president respectively, the winners to receive a majority of the votes in the electoral college and, in event no majority resulted, for the election of president by the House from the three highest candidates for that office, the House voting state delegation as a unit.

For vice president in case of deadlock, the amendment provided his election by the Senate, from the two highest candidates, members voting in the regular way.

The first test under this scheme came in 1824. Four tickets were in the field, headed by Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams, Henry Clay and William H. Crawford.

With the vote thus split, no candidate received the required majority, Jackson led with 99 votes, Adams second with 84, Crawford had 41 and Clay 37. Then the decision came in the House, on Feb. 9, 1825, Clay, who had been eliminated as fourth man, threw his influence behind Adams, who was elected on the first ballot.

A third deadlock, which required a somewhat different solution, came in the 1876 election in which Rutherford B. Hayes was the Republican and Samuel J. Tilden the Democratic candidate.

Contests over the results in South Carolina, Florida, Louisiana and Oregon were instituted, which left neither candidate with a majority.

Congress, to cut the knot, appointed an Electoral Commission, consisting of five representatives, five senators and four Supreme Court judges. The majority of this commission were Republicans, and by a strict party vote the deciding 22 electoral votes of these states were cast for Hayes, giving him the election by just one vote.

Bismarck Boys

The standing of the Little Big Four football league with the completion of the first round is as follows:

St. Mary's won 3, lost 0; Richholt won 2, lost 1; high school won 1, lost 2; Wm. Moore, won 0, lost 3. In the second half of the schedule, the St. Mary's will meet the Junior High-Wm. Moore and the Richholt will be known as the Junior-High Richholt.

In the Monday night game the Saints ran away with the high school team to the tune of 44 to 0, and last night the Richholt trimmed their old rivals 20 to 0. On Friday night, the St. Mary's will meet the Junior High-Wm. Moore team for the first game in the second round. In the Bantam League (90 pounds)

Crippled by Corns? Use "Gets-It"

World's Greatest Corn Remover

It's just wonderful how "Gets-It" ends corns and callouses. Put a few drops of "Gets-It" on a burning corn and feel! The pain stops at once forever. No matter how long you've had corns, how bad they may be, whether hard or soft, or what you have tried, believe this—"Gets-It" will end corn pain at once, soon you can lift the corn right off with the finger. ## Coolidge Economy Appeals To Women, Guardians of Private Purse of Nation

THRIFTY WOMEN RUNNING HOUSEHOLDS FOLLOW THE COURSE LAID DOWN FOR PUBLIC EXPENDITURES BY THE PRESIDENT

This is the second of a series of five articles by Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, and chairman of the Women's Division of that committee. Mrs. Hert discusses what she considers vital campaign issues from the woman's standpoint.

BY MRS. ALVIN T. HERT

MRS. ALVIN T. HERT

In the American homes women buy the food, the clothing and the furnishings. They disburse the family income and usually they are the ones who save the money to pay life insurance and to educate the children.

Because women have been entrusted by the men with this great responsibility, women realize the necessity of exercising common sense in their spending.

The wise woman does not spend more than her husband earns. The woman who saves a part of the family income is a safe and sane custodian of the family funds. Women expect this same thrift, this same careful spending, to be followed by the government in the running of the nation's affairs. They like the clean cut statement of President Coolidge that:

"We can only be relieved of our present private and public burdens by refraining from private and public extravagance. We must resist private and public outlays for which there is no commensurate return. This is economy. Whatever anybody may claim or say, there is no other method by which the people can rid themselves of their tremendous financial burdens."

The woman who is happy and who makes her family happy always shows a balance on the credit side of her housekeeping books. She does not spend money until the money has been earned. Even though the family savings are small, they are nevertheless important, for they relieve the family from oppression and the feeling of a mounting burden of debt which cannot be relieved.

The same principle applies to the government. As the President stated: "The expenses of the government reach everybody. When we come to realize that the yearly expenses of all the governments in this country have reached the stupendous sum of about $7,500,000,000 we get some idea of what this means. Of this amount about $3,500,000,000 is needed by the national government and the remainder by local governments."

"I want the people of America to work less for the government and more for themselves. I want them to have the rewards of their own industry."

This followed out the pledge of the Republican platform to the people of this country which declared firmly: "We demand and the people of the United States have the right to demand, rigid economy in government."

A policy of strict economy enforced by the Republican administration since 1921 has made possible tonight the St. Mary's will play the Junior High at the ball park. Richholt will play the Wachter at the Wm. Moore and the Wm. Moore will play the Roosevelt at the Roosevelt. The following games will be played at the Wm. Moore on Saturday morning in the Bantam League: 9:00 o'clock Wachter and the St. Mary's; 10:00 o'clock Richholt and the Roosevelt; 11:00 o'clock Junior High and the Wm. Moore.

able a reduction in taxation and has enabled the government to reduce the public debt by two and one-half billion dollars.

For the year ending June 30, 1923, the government's expenditures were $5,638,000,000 and the surplus was $86,000,000. For the year just closed the government's expenses were $3,487,000,000 and the surplus exceeded $500,000,000. This was a reduction in the annual cost of government of $2,041,000,000. Taxes have been reduced wherever possible and there has been an immense saving to people everywhere.

General Charles G. Dawes, the Republican candidate for Vice President, was asked by President Harding to outline a federal budget system and to put it into effect. This he did in the most thoroughgoing, whole-hearted manner with the result that government securities have been increased in value to more than $3,000,000 and deficits have been turned into surpluses.

These are the types of men the Republicans have chosen as their candidates for the highest offices in this country. These are the men that the women of this country will support at the polls next November, for they have shown by their deeds that they are able to put into force in this country the same kind of practical economy which intelligent women practice every day in their own homes.

INFANT DIES OF SLEEP-ILL
Sleeping sickness, known to the medical men as encephalitis, was responsible yesterday for the death of Velma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huncovsky of Timmer. The child was brought to a local hospital and died at noon yesterday. The funeral services will be held at Timmer on Friday.
This is the first death from sleeping sickness in this section of North Dakota for many months, according to physicians. However, there have been a number of cases reported, one at Flasher, one at Dickinson and other suspected cases.

STOCK HEARING IS DELAYED
Preliminary hearing in the case of the State of North Dakota vs. James Stack, St. Anthony vicinity who wielded a tire pump as an alleged weapon of defense, with the result that he badly fractured the skull of Victor Huncovsky, 18, who, Stack alleges was one of three who tried to pick a fight with him will await the recovery of Huncovsky it was stated today.
Stack's hearing was set for Monday afternoon but was postponed and today State Attorney L. H. Connolly and Attorney J. F. Sattler, counsel for the defense, declared several weeks delay may come before the preliminary trial.
Young Huncovsky, although still partially paralyzed on his right side as the result of loss of brain tissue and the blow on the head, is apparently making rapid recovery as far as his general condition is concerned.
Self-defense will be the plea of Stack's attorneys when the case finally comes to trial.

JAW BROKEN
Frances, aged 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Ehret of Solen, is in the Mandan Deaconess hospital with a badly fractured jaw as the result of being thrown from a horse. Just how the accident occurred she has been unable to say. The horse she was riding, a gentle animal which she had ridden hundreds of times, is believed to have stepped in a hidden hole, stumbling and throwing the girl. She mounted him again and rode some distance to her home. Her injury is rather severe. The lower jawbone was broken and a large number of teeth in both the upper and lower jaws were broken off or knocked out by the fall.

Grain Smuggled Into Canada
Winnipeg, Oct. 23.—An extensive system of grain smuggling from North Dakota and Minnesota to Manitoba points is being carried on this year, according to information obtained here last night.
The price of wheat is several cents higher in Canada and this has provided an inducement to many south of the line to get their grain sold through the Winnipeg market. In former years conditions were the reverse. Prices were higher in the United States and grain was smuggled in from Canada.
Discussing the situation here last night P. A. Lee, secretary of the North Dakota Grain Dealers association, said efforts had been made last spring to get the cooperation of government officials to stop the smuggling, but that little action resulted from the negotiations. The smuggling of grain from one side of the line to the other is a yearly occurrence, said Mr. Lee.

SIX ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BOOZE HOLDING
Fargo, N. D., Oct. 23.—Six North Dakota men have been arrested by prohibition officials and local authorities within the past few days for violations of the prohibition law, according to reports from the prohibition headquarters here.
J. M. Wischell of Mandan, arrested on Oct. 17, charged with possession, plead guilty to the recent raid officials seized 12 cases of moonshine.
John Zinker of New England, was arrested on Oct. 17 and 126 gallons of mash and five gallons of moonshine taken from his place. Two 20 gallon stills complete and in full operation.

Snakes Make Believe
"Hiss, hiss," said the snake in the zoo; "It is night, so let us wander."
"Hiss, hiss," said another snake; "Yes, let us wander."
"Hiss, hiss," said a third snake as he tongue went quickly in and out from his mouth, "let us be up and doing."
I heard that expression from the visitor the other day," he explained.
"The visitor thought I was asleep, or maybe he wouldn't have said such a thing, for he said it in anything but a complimentary fashion."
"He said that we were lazy," said a fourth snake. "He said that we were never up and doing."
"Ah, he was visiting us in the daytime when we were feeling sleepy. He ought to come around at night when we begin to think about wandering a little."
"Hiss, hiss, let us wander," said a fourth snake.
"Hiss, hiss, let us have adventures," said a fifth snake.
"Hiss, hiss," said a sixth snake, "let us be moving now. Do not let us stay still any longer."
"Good idea," said a seventh snake; "hiss, hiss, a good idea."
"Excellent," said an eighth snake, "I feel restless myself."
"And so do I," said a ninth snake.
"Hiss, hiss, I, too, feel restless."
"What about me? Don't go without me," said a tenth snake.
"We won't, hiss, hiss," said the others.
"I want to go, too," said another snake.
"And so do I," said yet another. "And I want to go, hiss, hiss," said still another snake.
No all the snakes started. "Where did they go?" Did they get out of their zoo homes and wander off, far into the night?
Did they leave every night and arrive back every morning in time for breakfast? If it happened to be a breakfast morning?
For of course snakes don't eat three meals a day as people do. They eat a great deal at a time, and then don't eat for ever so long again.
Some of them eat once a week, and do not eat more than once a month, and some do not eat as often as that.
But they eat great, huge meals when they do eat, it is very, very true.
No, the snakes in the zoo did not leave every night and go off wandering.
But every night they became restless.
They had slept through the day. They wanted to have some exercise.
So they wriggled around and around their zoo home and their cages.
To them they were having adventures. They did not feel bad that they could not go long distances, for they could go on wriggling and squirming all through the night.
No one would tell them go to sleep and not keep others awake. No one would tell them that even if they didn't feel sleepy they should try to get some sleep.
They were allowed to stretch themselves and wriggle and wander about their zoo cages, and that was their joy.
They could imagine they were taking long trips; they could imagine all sorts of wonderful happenings. Their keepers, it made Would Watch, sometimes their keeper would watch them and would say to them: "Good snakes—at least most of you are! You are so well-behaved, you do not cause me any trouble; you are gentle and you are even affectionate with me."
"Your dispositions are nice, so go ahead, good snakes, and have your make-believe adventures which to you are so real!"

INFANT DIES
OF SLEEP ILL

Sleeping sickness, known to the medical men as encephalitis, was responsible yesterday for the death of Velma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Huncovsky of Timmer. The child was brought to a local hospital and died at noon yesterday. The funeral services will be held at Timmer on Friday.

This is the first death from sleeping sickness in this section of North Dakota for many months, according to physicians. However, there have been a number of cases reported, one at Flasher, one at Dickinson and other suspected cases.

STOCK HEARING IS DELAYED

Preliminary hearing in the case of the State of North Dakota vs. James Stack, St. Anthony vicinity who wielded a tire pump as an alleged weapon of defense, with the result that he badly fractured the skull of Victor Huncovsky, 18, who, Stack alleged, was of the view that he was to pick a fight with him will await the recovery of Huncovsky it was stated today.

Stack's hearing was set for Monday afternoon but was postponed today States Attorney L. H. Connolly and Attorney J. P. Sullivan, counsel for the defense, declared several weeks delay may come before the preliminary trial.

Young Huncovsky, although still partially paralyzed on his right side as the result of loss of brain tissue and the blow on the head, is apparently making rapid recovery as far as his general condition is concerned.

Self-defense will be the plea of Stack's attorneys when the case finally comes to trial.

JAW BROKEN
Frances, aged 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Ehret of Solen, is in the Mandan Deaconess hospital with a badly fractured jaw as the result of being thrown from a horse. Just how the accident occurred she has been unable to say. The horse she was riding, a gentle animal which she had ridden hundreds of times, is believed to have stepped in a badger hole, stumbling and throwing the girl. She mounted him again and rode some distance to her home. Her injury is rather severe. The lower jawbone was broken and a large number of teeth in both the upper and lower jaws were broken off or knocked out by the fall.

Kiddies' Evening Story

Snakes' Make-Believe

"Hiss, hiss," said the snake in the zoo; "it is night, so let us wander."

"Hiss, hiss," said a third snake as his tongue went quickly in and out from his mouth, "let us be up and doing."

"I heard that expression from a visitor to the other day," he explained.

"The visitor thought I was asleep, or maybe he wouldn't have said such a thing, for he said it in anything but a complimentary fashion."

"He said that we were lazy, tire-some creatures. He said that we were never up and doing."

"Ah, he was visiting us in the daytime when we were feeling sleepy. He ought to come around at night when we begin to think about wandering a little."

"Hiss, hiss, let us wander," said a fourth snake.

"Hiss, hiss, let us have adventures," said a fifth snake.

"Hiss, hiss," said a sixth snake, "let us move. Do not let us stay still any longer."

"Good idea," said a seventh snake; "hiss, hiss, a good idea."

"Excellent," said an eighth snake, "I feel restless myself."

"And so do I," said a ninth snake.

"Hiss, hiss, I, too, feel restless." "What about me? Don't go without me," said a tenth snake.

"We won't, hiss, hiss," said the others.

"I want to go, too," said another snake.

"And so do I," said yet another.

"I want to go, too, hiss, hiss," said still another snake.

So all the snakes started. Where did they go? Did they get out of their zoo homes and wander off, far into the night?

Did they leave every night and arrive back every morning in time for breakfast, if it happened to be a breakfast morning?

For of course snakes don't eat three meals a day as people do. They eat a great deal at a time, and then don't eat for ever so long again.

Some of them eat once a week, some do not eat more than once a month, and some do not eat as often as that.

But they eat great, huge meals when they do eat, it is very, very true.

No, the snakes in the zoo did not leave every night and go off on a wandering.

But every night they became restless.

ALLEN NAMED PRESIDENT OF N.D. EDUCATORS

President of Normal School at Valley City Has No Opposition

Grand Forks, Oct. 23.—C. E. Allen, president of the State Teachers College at Valley City, was today elected president of the North Dakota Education Association here. His name was the only one placed before the association by the committee on nominations.

H. O. Pippin of Dickinson was re-elected as treasurer. The secretary will be selected later by the executive board of the association.

Resolutions adopted by the convention declare that the proposed measure for the limitation of tax levies to be voted upon at the general election is "unfair, unjust and unwise" and charged that such a law should take the control of local affairs "out of local hands, would penalize the community and institutions which have been most economical in the past and would cripple the entire school system."

Addresses by Dean Chassey of the University of Illinois, Rev. R. L. Smith of Minneapolis and A. L. Shaffer of Chicago featured today's general session of the convention.

DISSOLUTION IS ASKED

U. S. Attorney General Files
Brief in Harvester Case

St. Paul, Oct. 23.—"Effective dissolution" of the International Harvester Company's alleged monopoly of the farm machinery business is sought by Attorney General Stone, filed in his behalf in federal court today by the United States Attorney in proceedings supplemental to the consent entered in the same court in 1918.

Mr. Stone contends that greater competitive conditions in the farm machinery trade should be afforded. The consent decree did not go far enough, he said, demanding that action be taken to "give proper protection to the farmers and land owners who are dependent upon agricultural machinery and implements obtainable at reasonable prices."

FARMER DIES IN CAR CRASH

Devils Lake, Oct. 23.—Peter Stoesser, 50, a retired farmer of Penn. near here, was killed almost instantly last night when his automobile jumped the grade about three miles from here, turning over several times and crushing him. He was discovered a few minutes later by a passing autoist and died without gaining consciousness. He was alone in the car and was returning home.

FARMER SHOTS 3, KILLS SELF

Floodwood, Minn., Oct. 23.—Because his wife sued him for divorce, John Ollila, farmer living between Floodwood and Wright, shot and killed three persons and then ended his own life at the Ollila farm yesterday.

Using a .30-30 rifle, Ollila, who was 33 years old, shot and killed his wife, 41, their 2-year-old daughter and Louis Mattison, 45, a neighbor. He then turned the weapon on himself and ended his own life.

BIG CITY GAVE HER BRICK AND STONE —SHE WANTED LOVE

MRS. CHARLOTTE GATES TESTARD
BY ROY J. GIBBONS
NEA Service Writer

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Charlotte Gates Testard has rebelled.

There were too many bricks in her life. Two many apartment houses looking one like the other. Too many phonographs on the same street playing the same monotonous tunes.

There were no babies. Little grass and few trees. Everything was made of brick or stone.

So her heart grew chilled. Love was dead. She and her husband were estranged.

In Judge Sabath's crowded courtroom where she was suing for separate maintenance, she started thinking over these things.

Then rising to her feet she shrieked:

"See this!"

It was a poison vial. She drained it to the last drop.

They carried the disillusioned Mrs. Testard away to a hospital. Physicians say there is only a fighting chance for recovery.

"But there is no use for life," she sobs.

"Why should one live with the bricks, the stone, the sameness and no love?"

Mrs. Testard does not clearly understand. Neither does her husband. The city is responsible.

The husband operates an inn. In the inn and elsewhere his 23-year-old wife saw all the life and gaiety a big city provides. She stood it five years.

Then the woman in her wanted what every woman wants.

"A home and babies," she says. "And some trees and flowers. Anything but the bricks and stone."

Mrs. Testard has rebelled.

There are a lot of others like her on the verge of rebellion only they do not know what they are rebelling against.

Such folks live in the artificial caverns, 50 families to a 100-foot pile of concrete and the hated bricks.

Some have children. More have not. The landlord don't want children about.

"See this," shrieked Mrs. Testard.

N. D. STOCK TOPS MARKET

South St. Paul, Oct. 23.—The highest price for grain-fed yearlings here since December 7, 1922, was paid today when 33 head of steers and heifers from A. W. Aylot of Mayville, North Dakota, sold for $11.50 a hundred weight. The 1922 top price was $12.00.

G.O.P. CHAIRMEN ARE SUMMONED

Called to Testify Before
Borah Committee

Washington, Oct. 23.—With a view of determining whether there have been "concealed contributions" from big business men to the Republican campaign fund, Samuel Untermyer asked the Senate investigating committee today to subpoena the Republican state chairmen of New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Illinois.

Mr. Untermyer, who is associate counsel for Senator LaFollette, said it was strange that there were missing from the official Republican lists the names of such men as Elbert Garry of the U. S. Steel Corporation, J. P. Morgan, the Rockefeller and officers of the great Standard Oil interests, all "recognized Republicans."

Chairman Borah of the committee announced that the request would be granted and the state chairmen named would be called to Washington.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

The New Studebaker Big Six Duplex-Phaeton

Two Cars in One— An open and closed car combined.

STUDEBAKER Duplex—a closed and open car combined. An entirely new-type car—developed by Studebaker and available from no other maker.

It is the most sensational—most talked-of car in America.

One minute you are enjoying the comfort and protection of a closed car—next the unhindered freedom that made the open car so popular. And the change can be made in 30 seconds by simply lowering the roller side enclosures.

Yet with all this two-fold convenience, the Duplex-Phaeton sells for no more than an open car.

The new Studebaker Big Six is strikingly beautiful—with long, low sweeping lines. It is especially designed and powered for seven-passenger service.

The Big Six Duplex-Phaeton is delivered to you with complete equipment. This even includes two highest grade bumpers, extra balloon tire, tube and tire cover—there is nothing else to buy.

But to appreciate this car you must inspect it—drive it. Test its delightful ease of operation—steering mechanism especially designed for its full-sized balloon tires.

Notice the new location of the lighting switch on the steering wheel—and many other new and unusual features.

See this car that has definitely solved the open-closed car problem.
